

U.S. Resumes Rice Lift After Plane Hit

Phnom Penh, Cambodia (AP) — Rebel artillery shelling Phnom Penh airport Wednesday hit an American plane for the first time after the DC8 cargo jet landed with a load of rice.

U.S. officials halted the emergency airlift for the rest of the day, but an American Embassy spokesman said the flights resumed Thursday morning.

Government troops launched a three-pronged armor-backed operation against the "rocket belt" northwest of the airfield.

No injuries were reported among the crew of the World Airways plane hit Wednesday. Diplomatic sources said it returned to Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base with only minor damage in the tail from shrapnel.

Meanwhile, two U.S. marine liaison officers arrived in Phnom Penh to coordinate evacuation plans for 400 Americans in the beleaguered city — if it becomes necessary.

A helicopter carrier with about 800 Marines aboard was cruising near the Gulf of Thailand to help in any evacuation.

In Washington, Secretary of Defense James A. Schlesinger said the United States is reviewing its options regarding the worsening military situation in isolated Phnom Penh.

President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, conferring with a congressional fact-finding delegation, said: "The Cambodians are running out of time . . . and the United States should not pull the plug on Cambodia by denying it aid to defend itself."

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford and Kissinger used those words in seeking support for the administration's request for $222 million in military aid to Cambodia.

Schlesinger said, regarding the possible use of Marines to evacuate Americans from the city, "We would be prepared under the circumstances to use Marines, if the need arises."

Members of the congressional delegation which visited Vietnam and Cambodia last week reported their findings to Ford and Kissinger and said the secretary of state told them there was little hope now of any negotiations in Cambodia.

Rep. Paul McCloskey Jr., R-Calif., said Kissinger felt "the U.S. must negotiate from strength and there is no strength."

At the State Department, Asst. Secretary Philip Habib said six U.S. initiatives for peace in Cambodia have been undertaken in the last five months and that efforts are continuing for a compromise settlement.

Although McCloskey quoted Kissinger as saying there is little hope for negotiations, Habib said Kissinger was directly involved in the peace initiatives.

In Saigon, rice was being loaded on pallets and taken to the airport for the possible resumption of Phnom Penh supply flights Thursday. But American officials in the South Vietnamese capital said: "No decision has been made as to the flight schedule for Thursday."

In Phnom Penh airport sources said two persons on the ground were killed and more than 20 wounded when at least 50 rockets and captured U.S.-made 105mm shells struck the airport area in the heaviest attack so far by the Communist-led insurgents.

The Soviet news agency Tass reported that "the patriots" are within 4½ miles of Phnom Penh's airport from the west and are narrowing the ring around the Cambodian capital itself.

Under the pressure of the patriots the Lon Nol troops were forced to withdraw from a stranglepoint located 16 kilometers — 10 miles — north of the city," said Tass, not saying when it occurred.

Diplomatic sources said the 200 embassy personnel and other Americans would be evacuated only as a last resort if the airport is forced to close.

In addition to World Airways, two other airlines have been taking part in the rice lift under contract to the U.S. government — Airlift International and Flying Tiger. Using DC8 stretch jets, they fly back and forth between Saigon and Phnom Penh, a round-trip of 250 miles.

Ammunition and fuel have been flown in from Thailand by Bird Air, which operates under charter to the U.S. government, using Air Force C130 transports and civilian crews. The planes circle high over the city, then come in at sharp angles.

Wolfe Offers Students Warning

If a different drummer is playing your tune, if you want to leave the parade and do your own thing, you should at least be aware of the possible consequences.

That was the message author and "pop" sociologist Tom Wolfe had for an audience at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Wednesday night.

"So many of our ideas about the future are really conditioned by prophets" who base their philosophies on their own dreams about what should happen in the future, Wolfe said during a Nebraska Union-sponsored panel discussion with three UNL faculty members.

When people order their lives according to such philosophies, they may be short-changing themselves, Wolfe continued.

"Many students now are told to discover their own ethnic badge," to live out their heritage, he said.

In reality, this is "a means of isolating those very students," of "cutting them off" from future rewards.

"Have To Conform"

No one tells them "if you want to get along" in society "you're going to have to conform" to a certain extent, Wolfe said.

Panelist Dr. Richard Boohar, a professor in the School of Life Sciences, picked up on Wolfe's theme from a scientific point of view.

Society has already entered an "era of increased shortage" of critical supplies, he said.

There will be "no supplies to be drawn on by someone who wants to go funky." And the result could be an unavoidable limitation on individuality and freedom.

Laws Of Nature

"When you start dealing with the laws of nature," it won't matter "how much you philosophize," Boohar said.

According to panel member, Dr. David Brooks, professor of chemistry, a future of limited supplies will only be worsened if society reverts to "tribalism."

This is a time to look for "common purposes, common goals," not tribal or cultural separatism, Brooks said.

Looking to the future of the United States, Wolfe predicted change, but not revolution.

Many thought we were on the brink of revolution in 1970, when the invasion of Cambodia occurred, he said.

But by 1972, "there was no

New Left" remaining.

"That anything so big could deflate so fast makes me take a skeptical view" when the spectre of revolution is raised.

Wolfe said he foresees the coming of a third "great awakening" similar to the two religious revivals that swept this country during the 18th and 19th centuries.

Started In '60's

"Starting with the Hippie movement of the 1960's," this religious revival has evolved into the more recent "Jesus movement" and "charismatic Christianity," Wolfe said.

"Where it will lead I really don't know," Wolfe said. However he said he anticipates that future politicians will "tip their hats towards the new religious" just as they do towards labor unions today.

State Subsidy Of Patients' Bills, Teaching At Med Center Argued

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Appropriations Committee was told Wednesday it will have to decide how many state dollars should go to subsidize indigent patients' bills and teaching costs at the University of Nebraska Medical Center hospital in Omaha.

In a briefing on the UNMC 1975-76 budget proposal, legislative analyst Alan R. Moeller said he recommends the University Hospital get a 2½ subsidy and tighten up its collection procedures.

UNMC Chancellor Robert D. Sparks, M.D., defended a 15½ tax subsidy — or $2,157,507 — that the analyst's office knifed in budget recommendations to the committee.

More Unpaid Bills
Dr. Sparks said University Hospital, which provides more comprehensive services than any other in Nebraska, also incurs more unpaid bills, because it assumes an "obligation" for "last resort" referrals and patients obviously unable to afford needed medical services anywhere.

Under questioning by Sen. Richard Marvel, committee chairman, Sparks said UNMC actively pursues collections for hospital charges, which have held steady for six to eight years despite increases in total charges.

Without the $2.1 million appropriation, Sparks said UNMC "will have to eliminate activities which don't pay for themselves," such as some teaching functions and specialized services which allow the Medical Center to "remain competitive."

Moeller said he's asked UNMC to identify its rate of noncollections, so the committee can decide if it wants the hospital to pay its own way, just as private hospitals must.

UNMC also requested that $1,097,295 in retroactive Medicare and Medicaid settlements be placed in the 1975-76 hospital budget, to pay non-recurring expenses for equipment, renovation and operations.

'Windfall Gain'

Moeller described the payments as a "one-time windfall gain," compared to the total of $4.5 million since 1970-71. But Marvel scolded Sparks for using the earlier payments to fill budget areas where unexpected deficits popped up, saying such needs should be forecast.

Sparks offered some predictions to support the $15 million request for state tax funds next year, in a proposed $33.5 million campus budget.

"In the next five years, enrollments in all programs will go up 48% over our current enrollment," he said, but that depends on "continued financial support."

This fall, he said, the number of medical students (145) and pharmacy students (72) will remain the same, but the residency program should increase from 238 to 283. Omaha nursing from 410 to 438. Lincoln nursing from 33 to 111, and Allied Health Professions School, from 177 to 192.

The legislative fiscal analysts also contested a $114,655 UNMC budget request to pay for salary increases for residents or interns at Nebraska hospitals affiliated with the "house officer" program.

Not Patients' Burden

Sparks said those hospitals have declared they "can no longer bear the increase" in house officers' stipends (which range from $12,000 to $17,500), reasoning that patients should not legitimately bear the costs of education, even though the hospitals are reimbursed.

Sparks said he opposes the obvious solution, to reduce the number of house officers in the program.

The chancellor also defended a request of $179,461 more than the fiscal analysts recommended to pay for utilities, saying that amount is necessary because of rate increases ranging from 13-28%.

The analysis would also cut $100,000 that UNMC requested to improve its graduate program, claiming the funds would be used for basic medical research. Sparks explained, rather, they would pay for such Ph.D. programs as biochemistry, physiology, pathology and pharmacy, allowing the graduates to become university faculty members or join industrial research and development staffs.

Sparks also objected to other cuts recommended by the legislative staff: $18,900 for continuing education in nursing, $21,500 to expand the Lincoln nursing program and $15,000 for an allied health technology program.

May Lose $2.2 Million

He warned it appears UNMC may lose $2.2 million in federal funds, which could require a future deficit appropriation request.

The fiscal analysts have recommended line-item budget awards to the NU campuses, while Gov. J. James Exon has proposed a lump-sum appropriation to be left to NU system discretion.

Sparks suggested he supports the line-item approach. Marvel said in an earlier session, referring to discrepancies in the use of Medicare settlements: "It could be if we don't get any information out of them (UNMC officials), we'll just throw it (the NU budget) in the pot and let them fight over it."

"That may be the answer."

Planning Council Defers Action Subdivision Rule

City-county planners racked up another four hours Wednesday night hammering out a new land subdivision ordinance which would govern how local builders could develop land.

The planning commission deferred final adoption of a revamped 37-page law pending receipt of a complete list of changes made at the special night meeting. The commission held the session following a four-hour hearing on the measure last week at which a number of developers proposed changes in the ordinance.

The commission acquiesced to the developers' suggestion to scratch a proposal requiring the installation of a community sewage system in subdivisions with more than four houses.

Developer Pace Woods Jr. said the sewage systems should be required based on the size of the lots, not on the number of houses built in each subdivision.

The commission agreed and changed the section to require installation of community sewage systems if the development has more than four lots containing three acres or less.

The land subdivision law will not only govern developments within the city limits, but cover subdivisions located within three miles of the city limits.

The proposal also calls for biannual review of the ordinance by the planning commission.

Local developers have been working with a planning commission subcommittee on the proposal, which eventually will be submitted to the City Council for action.

Troops Storm Hotel Taken By Arabs

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli troops early Thursday stormed a Tel Aviv hotel in which Arab terrorists were holding dozens of foreign tourists hostage, and after heavy gunfire a spokesman for the Israeli military command spokesman said: "It is all over."

"The army is in control of the hotel," Radio Israel reported. It said there was a short firefight as the troops clashed with the terrorists inside the building.

Soldiers were carrying dead bodies and wounded persons to waiting ambulances.

The army attacked at 5:15 a.m., following a long lull and about six hours after the Arab guerrillas stormed ashore from two rubber rafts with guns blazing and captured the hotel.

The terrorists took dozens of European tourists hostage, and the Al Fatah guerrilla organization announced in Beirut that they were demanding the release of 10 prisoners from Israeli jails, including the Greek Catholic archbishop of Jerusalem, Msgr. Hilarion Capudji.

Al Fatah also demanded that a United Nations plane take the 10 prisoners to an Arab capital.

But meanwhile the Israeli government ordered the army into action, in line with its consistent policy of refusing to give in to terrorist demands regardless of the consequences.

About 50 soldiers dashed down the street in full battle gear, and the area was lit up with red and green flares and a searchlight.

There was a two-minute burst of heavy automatic fire, a brief pause and then another eruption of firing.

"There are a lot of dead and wounded — we still do not know how many," said a policeman at the scene near the U.S. Embassy.

Residents of the neighborhood said the Israeli troops opened fire with automatic weapons and bazooka rockets as an assault squad raced into the entrance of the hotel.

There was an explosion on the top floor, apparently set off by the guerrillas, and the walls of the upper part of the small hotel were blown away.

First reports indicated some of the hostages might have been killed in the explosion.

Associated Press photographer Max Nash reported the terrorists were holding as many as 40 hostages in the three-story Savoy Hotel several hundred yards from the American Embassy.

Troops in full battle gear sealed off streets around the building on the Mediterranean seashore. The sea front, with hotels, night clubs and offices, is the center of Tel Aviv's night life.

A military helicopter made passes over the hotel and a ship offshore played a searchlight on the building.

Authorities ordered an alert in all Israeli cities, fearing the raid could be part of a co-ordinated series of attacks.

Harold Adams, a Vietnam veteran from Mission Hills, Calif., who is visiting Israel, told newsmen: "The terrorists fired at least a couple of thousand rounds, I would estimate. I saw three men on the hotel roof and then two others running in a different direction, firing all the time. Then I got the hell out of there."

In Beirut, the Al Fatah Palestinian guerrilla organization issued a statement saying two groups of its men were engaged in "fierce fighting" in the heart of Tel Aviv. It did not say how many raiders there were, but it said they were armed with rocket-propelled grenades, machine guns and hand grenades.

Their attack came almost two years after Israeli paratroopers and naval commandos landed in Beirut and gunned down three guerrilla leaders inside their homes. Al Fatah's communiqué said the Arab raiders were named after two guerrilla "martyrs."

U.S. Marines reinforced their guards at the American Embassy, located several hundred yards from the battle scene.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger stopped over in London Wednesday night on his way here and to other Mideast points on his latest peace mission. Embassy security had been strengthened earlier by an advance party of several Secret Service men.

Soldiers were carrying dead bodies and wounded persons to waiting ambulances.

The army attacked at 5:15 a.m., following a long lull and about six hours after the Arab guerrillas stormed ashore from two rubber rafts with guns blazing and captured the hotel.

The terrorists took dozens of European tourists hostage, and the Al Fatah guerrilla organization announced in Beirut that they were demanding the release of 10 prisoners from Israeli jails, including the Greek Catholic archbishop of Jerusalem, Msgr. Hilarion Capudji.

Al Fatah also demanded that a United Nations plane take the 10 prisoners to an Arab capital.

But meanwhile the Israeli government ordered the army into action, in line with its consistent policy of refusing to give in to terrorist demands regardless of the consequences.

About 50 soldiers dashed down the street in full battle gear, and the area was lit up with red and green flares and a searchlight.

There was a two-minute burst of heavy automatic fire, a brief pause and then another eruption of firing.

"There are a lot of dead and wounded — we still do not know how many," said a policeman at the scene near the U.S. Embassy.

Residents of the neighborhood said the Israeli troops opened fire with automatic weapons and bazooka rockets as an assault squad raced into the entrance of the hotel.

There was an explosion on the top floor, apparently set off by the guerrillas, and the walls of the upper part of the small hotel were blown away.

First reports indicated some of the hostages might have been killed in the explosion.

Associated Press photographer Max Nash reported the terrorists were holding as many as 40 hostages in the three-story Savoy Hotel several hundred yards from the American Embassy.

Troops in full battle gear sealed off streets around the building on the Mediterranean seashore. The sea front, with hotels, night clubs and offices, is the center of Tel Aviv's night life.

A military helicopter made passes over the hotel and a ship offshore played a searchlight on the building.

Authorities ordered an alert in all Israeli cities, fearing the raid

could be part of a co-ordinated series of attacks.

Harold Adams, a Vietnam veteran from Mission Hills, Calif., who is visiting Israel, told newsmen: "The terrorists fired at least a couple of thousand rounds, I would estimate. I saw three men on the hotel roof and then two others running in a different direction, firing all the time. Then I got the hell out of there."

In Beirut, the Al Fatah Palestinian guerrilla organization issued a statement saying two groups of its men were engaged in "fierce fighting" in the heart of Tel Aviv. It did not say how many raiders there were, but it said they were armed with rocket-propelled grenades, machine guns and hand grenades.

Their attack came almost two years after Israeli paratroopers and naval commandos landed in Beirut and gunned down three guerrilla leaders inside their homes. Al Fatah's communiqué said the Arab raiders were named after two guerrilla "martyrs."

U.S. Marines reinforced their guards at the American Embassy, located several hundred yards from the battle scene.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger stopped over in London Wednesday night on his way here and to other Mideast points on his latest peace mission. Embassy security had been strengthened earlier by an advance party of several Secret Service men.

S. Yemen Called Red Sea's Cuba

By HOLGER JENSEN BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Five West German anarchists who found sanctuary in South Yemen chose a radical Arab backwater regarded as the Cuba of the Red Sea.

The newest and poorest member of the Arab League, South Yemen is one of the few countries in the world without any U.S. diplomatic or consular presence.

Americans are "strongly advised not to visit there" by U.S. State Department circulars posted in every regional embassy.

Roughly the size of Arizona with a population of 14 million, South Yemen occupies the southwest tip of the Arabian peninsula. It comprises the former British colony of Aden and a forbidding hinterland of 23 poorly delineated tribal sheikhdoms.

Its international borders have all been in dispute since the republic came into being in 1967, following a concurrent civil war between rival nationalist factions and a revolt against British rule. After several name changes the regime has finally settled on the Popular Democratic Republic of Yemen.

South Yemen's publicly announced goal of spreading Marxist revolution across the oil rich Arabian peninsula has earned it the enmity of Arab neighbors and support from China and the Soviet Union.

The country provides training facilities, bases and propaganda media for two rebel movements — the Entreen Liberation Front — ELF — fighting for autonomy in Ethiopia, and the Popular Front for the Liberation of Oman — PFLO — fighting in that sultanate's Dhofar province, on South Yemen's eastern border.

South Yemen also maintains close ties with leftist Palestinian guerrilla groups, most notably Dr. George Habash's Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine — PFLP.

In 1972, Aden became a sanctuary for PFLP guerrillas who hijacked a Lufthansa airliner carrying Joseph Kennedy, the son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, on a flight from India to Europe. The plane and passengers were released after the Germans paid a $5 million ransom.

In 1974, Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., visited South Yemen and secured the release of an Illinois schoolteacher, Ed Franklin, who had been imprisoned for 16 months after taking pictures of the countryside.

South Yemen hopes reopening of the Suez Canal will return some of the prosperity and strategic importance it enjoyed before the canal closing in 1967 when Aden was a bustling port with a British naval base that controlled the Bab al-Mandab strait at the entrance to the Red Sea.

For now however the country remains heavily dependent on aid from China, the Soviet Union and other East bloc countries. Chinese doctors, for example, treat Yemeni peasants with acupuncture and the army is trained by Chinese Soviet and East German advisers.

The per capita income is $106 a year. There are no mineral resources.

Iran-Iraq Dispute Intensifies

KERMANSHAH, Iran (AP) — The border war between Iran and Iraq has intensified in recent weeks and hospitals in this Iranian provincial capital near the frontier are crowded with wounded, military sources said Wednesday.

They said clashes have been more frequent and on a larger scale, and both armies are concentrating artillery and troops in the snow-covered mountains.

A long-festering border dispute between the rival neighbors has frequently erupted in bloody battles. The enmity has been aggravated by Iran's support of Kurdish rebels fighting for autonomy in northern Iraq.

Ambulances and other emergency vehicles carrying wounded Iranian soldiers and Kurdish irregulars are a common sight in the streets of Kermanshah.

The sources said Iran was keeping supply and escape corridors open to Kurdish rebels using long-range artillery, and Iraqi artillery units have begun responding.

Clashes of ground troops are also increasing, they said.

The escalation of border fighting was reported as leaders of the two oil-rich neighbors met during an oil producers summit in Algeria.

Shah Mohamed Reza Pahlavi of Iran and Vice President Saddam Hussein, the strongman of the Iraqi Baathist regime, met Tuesday night over tea at the invitation of Algerian President Houari Boumedienne. No details were given of their discussion.

The invitation was an evident mediation effort.

The dispute between Iran and Iraq is centered on rival claims to navigation rights on the Shatt el Arab River, which forms part of their common border.

Some of the bloodiest fighting along the border occurred one year ago when the neighbors swapped heavy artillery fire for several days. The U.N. Security Council sent observers to investigate the clashes and Iran and Iraq later agreed in principle to withdraw troops along the border and to form a joint border delimitation commission.

But the clashes continued and last December Iranian missiles shot down two Iraqi jets.

The latest round in the long war between Mulla Mustafa Barzani's Kurdish rebel army and the Baghdad regime began a year ago when talks about forming an autonomous Kurdistan broke off over control of rich oil fields in the area.

Sources here said that more than 135,000 Kurds, mostly women and children, have fled to Iran to escape artillery shelling and bombing raids by Russian built Iraqi jets.

Oil Price Freeze Tied To Massive Western Aid

ALGIERS (AP) — The summit of the major oil exporters endorsed Algeria's proposal for a five-year freeze in the "real" price of oil provided the Western oil importers make a massive contribution to develop the Third World, delegation sources said Wednesday.

The declaration of principles adopted by the national leaders also endorses the controversial concept of linking oil prices to the cost of manufactured goods, services and technology.

The expression "in real terms" in Algeria's proposal left the oil exporters free to decree increases in dollar terms whenever they feel inflation has eaten away more of the real value of their oil prices.

At the same time, Kuwait announced that it plans to take over the remaining 40% of its oil operation now owned by British Petroleum and Gulf Oil. Kuwait, the world's fourth largest exporter, already owns 60% of the operation.

The declaration of principles, to be published Thursday, sets the broad outlines of long-term dealings between the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries and the industrialized countries.

It incorporates many of the hard line proposals of Algerian President Houari Boumedienne. But the leaders postponed action on his suggestion for setting up a $10 billion to $15 billion fund to help Western Europe and developing nations pay their oil bills.

Though details are to be worked out at the expert level, Boumedienne has suggested that OPEC freeze prices for all of this year, increase them in 1976 and 1977 to partially offset inflation, then increase them to fully match inflation in 1978 and 1979.

The chiefs of state decided to accept the French government's invitation to a preliminary meeting for a world energy conference, the sources reported, but made it clear that their views on the conference vary sharply from those of the United States.

Kissinger Heads For Mideast

LONDON (AP) — Henry Kissinger arrived here Wednesday night on his way to the Middle East and an "open-ended" negotiating mission to secure a broad second-stage Israeli-Egyptian settlement in the Sinai.

Kissinger embarked on the journey — his ninth trip to the Middle East since the October 1973 War — with a kiss from the First Lady and a hearty handshake from President Ford.

Kissinger's first stop is London and consultations with Foreign Secretary James Callaghan.

Diplomats in London said Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's experts have formulated a range of options for Kissinger to present Egypt's President Anwar Sadat.

All are based on an Israeli military pullback in Sinai in exchange for some matching Egyptian concession, probably a disavowal of the use of force against Israel.

175 Seized In Berlin Manhunt

Berlin (UPI) — Thousands of heavily armed steel-helmeted West German police swarmed out of their barracks Wednesday, set up road blocks, and arrested 175 persons in a massive manhunt for the kidnapers of Christian Democratic leader Peter Lorenz.

The major part of West Berlin's 14,000-man police force sprang into action shortly after midnight, only 15 minutes after the 52-year-old Lorenz called his wife Marianne to say he was free after six days in captivity at the hands of anarchist guerrillas.

Manfred Kittlaus, director of the West Berlin criminal police, said police sweeps during the night turned up chemicals, a radio transmitter, cameras, car license plates and documents, a chip filled with ammunition for an American rapid fire weapon, and an American uniform.

Of the 175 persons arrested for questioning, 86 were women, Kittlaus told newsmen. He said one of the women was undergoing an "intensive interview."

Guerrillas let Lorenz go, blindfolded, on a bench in the S-shaped gardens of Wildersdorf Park as the great bell at Berlin's City Hall stroked midnight.

Obviously tired yet displaying an occasional flash of wit, Lorenz told reporters he was kept in a small basement room 10 by 6 1/2 feet, but other than that had "no idea where I was held."

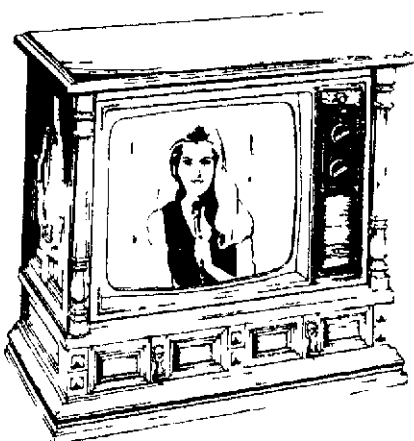

The basement itself was soundproof. Lorenz's cell was closed on one side by floor-to-ceiling chicken wire with a door of the same material. To prevent Lorenz from seeing out, the kidnapers hung a heavy red curtain between the chicken wire wall and a room in which his guards watched television and listened to the radio.

The kidnapers released Lorenz only after West Germany freed five of their comrades from prison, flew them to the People's Democratic Republic of Yemen, and helped arrange asylum for them there.

Lorenz said the kidnapers blocked his car Thursday morning, overpowered him and gave him two injections that made him half unconscious.

Honey Bee Wins Swarm Of Votes

By United Press International

The Legislature, with only one senator departing from the swarm of votes for it, Wednesday sent over its first floor hurdle a bill to name the honey bee the state insect.

Sen. George Syas, who holds the honorary title of dean of the Legislature due to his longevity, cast the only dissenting vote as LB15 was sent buzzing on its way on a 42-1 count.

Syas, during debate, said he realized it probably wasn't the proper time to say anything because the originators of the bill — a group of fourth graders from Auburn — were seated in the balcony.

"But I have consistently been against this type of bill," he said, adding "we are cluttering up our statutes" with such legislation.

Syas recalled that a few years ago he and another senator introduced a bill to make the grasshopper the state insect as a way of making fun of naming a state tree, a state bird, a state song, a state flower, a state grass, etc.

However, the lawmaker said when he tried to withdraw that bill when the fun was over "I had a tough time keeping it from passing."

This year he suggested naming the coyote as the state animal.

Last year the lawmakers adopted a resolution naming the honey bee the state insect at the request of former Sen. Richard Fellman, who was acting as the spokesman for the Auburn students.

However, the resolution had no meaning in law and this session Sen. John Savage of Omaha agreed to sponsor the bill.

Savage assured his colleagues "this is not a frivolous bill."

Handicapped Ed Aid Bill OKd, Sent To Governor

By United Press International

The Legislature passed and sent to the governor Wednesday on a 40-7 vote a bill designed to cut through temporarily some of the snarled red tape surrounding Nebraska's law to provide an equal education to the handicapped.

Introduced on Feb. 20 by the Legislature's Education Committee, LB555 would go into immediate effect if signed by the governor and in turn would cease to exist in four weeks.

Its primary purpose is to keep state money flowing to the local school districts so that programs for the mentally and physically handicapped are not shut down.

The bill would allocate immediately $2 million to local school districts on a one-time basis from money already appropriated for the current year.

The program has been the center of problems since it went into operation this year. Schools without handicapped youngsters received money and the State Department of Administrative Services stepped in.

However, Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings warned his colleagues LB555 was not the final answer to the problems surrounding the law.

"This still doesn't solve the problem — there are school districts that have been overpaid," Marvel said.

Exon Gets Waterways Control Bill

By United Press International

The Legislature Wednesday passed and sent to the governor a bill designed to preempt federal control over Nebraska waterways.

Prompted by a finding that neither state nor federal agencies accepted responsibility for developments along waterways, LB108 sponsored by Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora received a 46-0 final approval vote.

The lack of control surfaced when Buccaneer Bay developers tried to find a state or federal agency to clear their plans for a project along the Platte. None could be found.

As a result, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers started moving in last year to take over control of the Platte in particular.

But state officials wanted the state to have control and under the Kremer bill the Department of Water Resources would get it. The Natural Resources Commission would also have some planning duties.

However, federal officials have not said yet whether the legislation would mean dropping the federal move for control.

Labor Unit OKs Benefit Raises

The Legislature's Labor Committee advanced a bill Wednesday that would raise the maximum unemployment insurance benefit in Nebraska from $76 to $80.

The committee advanced Lincoln Sen. Steve Fowler's LB475 to the floor of the Legislature. If approved, the measure would take effect June 1.

The committee killed LB393, a measure which would have required the state to give emphasis in letting contracts to firms which employ veterans.

Jury Decision Obscenity Law Passes Unicam

The Legislature Wednesday passed a new obscenity law requested by Omaha City Prosecutor Gary Buccino.

The law allows a jury to decide if the average person applying contemporary community standards would find the work taken as a whole.

—Goes substantially beyond the customary limits of candor.

—Is patently offensive.

—And the work as a whole lacks serious literary, artistic, political or scientific value.

The material would not be obscene unless it failed all of the three tests.

Bills Passed

By The Associated Press
Bills passed by the legislature Wednesday (E —emergency clause):

LB555 — Appropriates $2 million in emergency assistance to local school districts to continue special education programs for handicapped children. 40-7 E.

LB260 — Places constitutional amendment on November 1976 general election ballot to authorize issuance of bonds to fund redevelopment of blighted areas. 31-17.

LB13 — Deletes restrictions on appropriation for gerontology studies at University of Nebraska. 47-0.

LB77 — Revises state law on obscenity. 40-3.

LB108 — Grants the Department of Water Resources control over construction in floodplains. 46-0 E.

LB251 — Changes membership requirements on Nebraska Commission on the Status of Women. 47-0.

LB290 — Specifies conditions court may impose on parent, guardian or custodian as a prerequisite to permitting child before juvenile court to remain at home. 30-14.

The Legislature, with only one senator departing from the swarm of votes for it, Wednesday sent over its first floor hurdle a bill to name the honey bee the state insect.

Sen. George Syas, who holds the honorary title of dean of the Legislature due to his longevity, cast the only dissenting vote as LB15 was sent buzzing on its way on a 42-1 count.

Syas, during debate, said he realized it probably wasn't the proper time to say anything because the originators of the bill — a group of fourth graders from Auburn — were seated in the balcony.

"But I have consistently been against this type of bill," he said, adding "we are cluttering up our statutes" with such legislation.

Syas recalled that a few years ago he and another senator introduced a bill to make the grasshopper the state insect as a way of making fun of naming a state tree, a state bird, a state song, a state flower, a state grass, etc.

However, the lawmaker said when he tried to withdraw that bill when the fun was over "I had a tough time keeping it from passing."

This year he suggested naming the coyote as the state animal.

Last year the lawmakers adopted a resolution naming the honey bee the state insect at the request of former Sen. Richard Fellman, who was acting as the spokesman for the Auburn students.

However, the resolution had no meaning in law and this session Sen. John Savage of Omaha agreed to sponsor the bill.

Savage assured his colleagues "this is not a frivolous bill."

Handicapped Ed Aid Bill OKd, Sent To Governor

By United Press International

The Legislature passed and sent to the governor Wednesday on a 40-7 vote a bill designed to cut through temporarily some of the snarled red tape surrounding Nebraska's law to provide an equal education to the handicapped.

Inducted on Feb. 20 by the Legislature's Education Committee, LB555 would go into immediate effect if signed by the

Exon Gets Waterways Control Bill

By United Press International

The Legislature Wednesday passed and sent to the governor a bill designed to preempt federal control over Nebraska waterways.

Prompted by a finding that neither state nor federal agencies accepted responsibility for developments along waterways, LB108 sponsored by Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora received a 46-0 final approval vote.

The lack of control surfaced when the Duccaneer Bay developers tried to find a state or federal agency to clear their plans for a project along the Platte. None could be found.

As a result, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers started moving in last year to take over control of the Platte in particular.

But state officials wanted the state to have control and under the Kremer bill the Department of Water Resources would get it. The Natural Resources Commission would also have some planning duties.

However, federal officials have not said yet whether the legislation would mean dropping the federal move for control.

Labor Unit OKs Benefit Raises

The Legislature's Labor Committee advanced a bill Wednesday that would raise the maximum unemployment insurance benefit in Nebraska from $76 to $80.

The committee advanced Lincoln Sen. Steve Fowler's LB475 to the floor of the Legislature. If approved, the measure would take effect June 1.

The committee killed LB393, a measure which would have required the state to give emphasis in letting contracts to firms which employ veterans.

Uni Place Parking Said Badly Needed

By BOB GUENTHER

Residents of Lincoln's University Place Wednesday told the Legislature's Urban Affairs Committee that off-street parking is needed to help redevelop that area's business district.

University Place representatives and Ralph Nelson, speaking for the City of Lincoln, testified in favor of LB564, which would allow Lincoln to create off-street parking through a special assessment. Smaller communities, first and second class cities, already have that power.

Coleen Seng, president of the University Place community organization, said off-street parking would help keep University Place a healthy community by encouraging business and preventing decay.

"Good for Community" Don Bredthauer, also from University Place, added, "What's good for the business district is good for the community."

Bredthauer said property has already been acquired to develop off-street parking, provided the Legislature extends the needed powers to Lincoln.

The committee also aired Sen. Ralph Kelly's LB459, which would allow the City of Grand Island to pave certain streets in an industrial tract which the city cannot annex and charge the cost to the property owners.

The area in question lies on Grand Island's south side and is bounded by South Lincoln St., Former Park Road and W. Anna. Much of the property is owned by the Burlington Northern railroad, which in turn leases the property. Diamond Engineering, Farmers Union Coop and Island Supply Co. are located in the tract.

The tract was originally established by the county in 1957.

John Kuk, head of Burlington's industrial development section in Omaha, said he favors the improvements. The issue, he said, is how it should be done.

"I know it can be solved through the county," Kuk said. Ed Robs, of Berkeley Pump Co., also opposed the bill, saying he resented "the big club approach" being used by the city to get the street paved. The area was developed, he said, with the understanding it could not be taxed by the city.

Representatives of the Farmers Union Coop also appeared to oppose the bill.

Criticism Of Usury Bill Is 'Sour Grapes'—Lewis

By The Associated Press

Bellevue Sen. Frank Lewis said Wednesday that criticism of a usury bill he is sponsoring amounts to "sour grapes."

Lewis responded to criticism of LB349, which Neigh Sen. John DeCamp said would be "a ripoff" of the public.

Lewis noted a bill offered by DeCamp that would have let borrowers negotiate a rate of interest was killed in committee.

The bill would raise the maximum interest rate on most loans to 12%. Loans over $100,000 would be excluded.

Uni Place Parking Said Badly Needed

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Residents of Lincoln's University Place Wednesday told the Legislature's Urban Affairs Committee that off-street parking is needed to help redevelop that area's business district.

University Place representatives and Ralph Nelson, speaking for the City of Lincoln, testified in favor of LB564, which would allow Lincoln to create off-street parking through a special assessment. Smaller communities first and second class cities already have that power.

Coleen Seng, president of the University Place community organization, said off-street parking would help keep University Place a healthy community by encouraging business and preventing decay.

"Good for Community" Don Bredthauer, also from University Place, added, "What's good for the business district is good for the community."

Bredthauer said property has already been acquired to develop off-street parking provided the Legislature extends the needed powers to Lincoln.

The committee also aired Sen. Ralph Kelly's LB459, which would allow the City of Grand Island to pave certain streets in an industrial tract which the city cannot annex and charge the cost to the property owners.

The area in question lies on Grand Island's south side and is bounded by South Lincoln St., Finner Park Road and W. Anna. Much of the property is owned by the Burlington Northern railroad, which in turn leases the property. Diamond Engineering, Farmers Union Coop and Island Supply Co. are located in the tract.

The tract was originally established by the county in 1957.

when the area was predominantly rural, and since then the city of Grand Island has grown around the tract.

The main issue surrounds S. Lincoln St., a portion of which has been paved by the city. The Hall County Board has refused to pave its portion of the road, possibly because Grand Island residents would be the principal beneficiaries, the discussion indicated.

Kelly said the City of Grand Island has been negotiating with the property owners to get the roads paved since 1961 but no agreement has been reached.

Kelly told the committee the impasse has blocked civil improvements in Grand Island and needs to be resolved. He said the Grand Island City Council has gone on record as favoring LB459.

John Carpenter, Grand Island city manager, appeared to support the bill.

Sen. Herb Durs of Gothenburg posed a number of questions which suggested the solution might properly rest with the Hall County Board.

Issue Is How
John Kuk, head of Burlington's industrial development section in Omaha, said he favors the improvements. The issue, he said, is how it could be done.

I know it can be solved through the county, Kuk said. Ed Rohs of Berkeley Pump Co. also opposed the bill, saying he resented the big city approach being used by the city to get the street paved. The area was developed, he said, with the understanding it could not be taxed by the city.

Rohs, who said he employs 110 people, indicated the paving project could force him to remove a $400,000 building.

Representatives of the Farmers Union Coop also appeared to oppose the bill.

Monkey On Their Back

The Legislature has placed a monkey firmly on the back of public power agencies throughout the state. The burden of responsibility is there as a result of passage of a bill permitting joint power agency construction of electric generation and transmission facilities.

This is a measure that was defeated a year ago in the face of divided interest on the part of the various power groups. The major stumbling block at that time was the fear of the Nebraska Public Power District that other agencies would enter into combinations resulting in the duplication of the NPPD statewide distribution system.

While this fear has apparently been somewhat allayed, it remains as the major challenge to the validity of the newly enacted legislation. That legislation will be good or bad for the future of Nebraska depending upon the intelligence with which it is implemented by utility groups.

The purpose of the measure is to permit the flexibility that is needed at this time to meet the challenge of rising demands for power and resulting capital investment loads. It is largely a matter of giving to public power groups in the state the means of meeting their financial needs.

It is not intended that the utilities use the legislation to compete with one another, to construct facilities that duplicate those now in existence. If it is used to build empires and to satisfy petty jealousies, it will be an aborted piece of legislation.

Rather than saving the people of Nebraska money on their electric bills, it would cost them money because duplication is a costly waste. From what we can tell, there is no effective means by which such duplication can be halted under the law.

The utilities themselves will have to supply the discipline by which needless construction is not undertaken. Urging them on toward that end should be the reality that abuse of the law will surely lead to more restrictive measures in some future session of the Legislature.

If the power agencies want the freedom of operation they need, they will have to prove they are worthy of such a public trust and the new law provides them with just such a test.

The Question Of Aid

Events in Indochina have taken a curious turn so far as this nation is concerned since the return of the congressional fact-finding delegation.

Taken by the plight of the Cambodian civilians and the population of Phnom Penh, defended against the communist-supplied insurgents by a shrinking perimeter of government troops under Premier Lon Nol, the delegation is recommending continued medical and food assistance and has split on the question of military aid with a slight majority favoring enough aid for ammunition to supply the Cambodian government troops until the rainy season slows insurgent activity or until a settlement with the Khmer Rouge can be negotiated. Only Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., seems to be totally opposed to additional military aid.

The delegation's agonizing comes against a background of reported opposition by Secy. of State Henry Kissinger to a major new diplomatic offensive by the United States. He is said to think such a venture futile because of the overwhelming strategic superiority of the communist-backed forces.

For the moment, the aid to Indochina question is on the back burner because of the intense focus on the efforts of the President and the Congress to come to some sort of agreement on economic and energy programs.

But inevitably and soon the question which seemingly won't go away will have to be faced. How much more time can we and will we buy them?

In view of the military situation and the lack of stomach the U.S. apparently has for mounting a political or diplomatic offensive any answer but "none" would seem illogical.

Most Americans would be hard put to deny anybody's request for medicine and rice but money for more bullets in a lost cause is something else again.

As Mrs. Abzug said, it's about time we placed the emphasis on securing peace rather than paying for more war.

This can go on for only so long. Should additional military aid allow the Phnom Penh perimeter to hold out past this coming June and the rains, what happens when it dries up again? And then there is the question of Vietnam.

Beneath The Snow Cover

The snow in the yard will not yield. The above-freezing temperatures of gray February's last days were not enough. Very March-like weather does not improve the situation, at least not at a rapid pace.

While many of Lincoln's lawns have that undistinguished but hopeful mushy brown look, in our tree-covered section of town the neighbors' yards and our own look like alpine timber country in the Never-Summer range. Winter lingers; the grubby snow cover retreats grudgingly.

The bird bath pedestal is finding some relief. Now a full half foot of it can be seen. But the tulips on the north side would have to grow three feet tall to pop above the dingy, icy mound that now covers their bed.

But it is now only two weeks or so til spring. And after what we consider to be a fairly decent winter, we can't complain too much.

The seeds from our favorite German variety tomato, which we always start inside too early each year because we can't wait, have germinated in record time. The seedlings are robust and straining toward the sun which comes in the south windows of the den. We were poking around beneath the snow and under the mulch in the yard last weekend looking for new green things creeping up from below. They are there, whatever they are.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

Today when I washed the dishes, I dropped a glass lemonade squeezer . . . the old hand-twisting kind, not a part of the modern electric squeezers that come as an attachment with an appliance. It bounced on the floor, spun around several times and rolled off to the side of the kitchen while The Farmer and I watched, waiting for it to shatter. It didn't receive a single glass chip.

"That's made of good stuff," said The Farmer in dismay.

"Yes, that's the way things were made back in the forties," I answered. "This lemon squeezer was one we bought when we were married back in 1941. If it could take such a fall without breaking, it will probably be good for another thirty-four years — much longer than we will survive, no doubt."

A lot of lemons have been squeezed in its day for lemonade and pies. If I had the ambition, I would bake a flaky pie crust and fill it with a tangy lemon filling and top it with a meringue. But ambition is hard to come by at three o'clock in the afternoon.

One of my favorite lemon pie fillings is made with milk. It has been in my recipe file for years. It has a rich creamy texture and so delicious! Perhaps I can say that is my pie in the sky. Some build castles in the air and others day-dream of far-off shores. Me? I stack pies, one above the other, delicious crusty, rich pies while I do some wishful thinking. There's blueberry, rhubarb, cherry, sour cream raisin, apple, strawberry chiffon, lemon cream, pineapple meringue and chocolate fluff.

To stack my pies a bit higher, I might add banana cream, peach praline, lime angel, custard, black bottom, pumpkin, mincemeat, butterscotch and heavenly orange meringue pie. This doesn't include pecan, fruit sive fertilizer, seed and fuel and hope for better prices later. It does not seem reasonable to plant a crop this spring that is going to lose money before it can be reaped. He is not certain that the wheat has come through the winter this year. Several farmers think their fields will have to be torn up and replanted to other crops this spring.

Perhaps the farmers will have to refrain from raising the standard variety of grains and glut the market with black-eyed peas.

mallow, peppermint whip or icebox pie. However I had best stop before my pies in the sky topple. Beside such a catastrophe, I am getting hungry . . . in fact, I feel absolutely famished and it is a good three hours before supper.

The Farmer has been contemplating the spring planting season . . . whether to let some of the land lie idle this summer and put it into wheat this fall or put out cold hard cash for expen-

I have been reading a very interesting book titled, "This Bright Land," written by Brooks Atkinson. I have found this to be a very informative book since Mr. Atkinson has a reverence for the out-of-doors as well as for the systems of nature. He expresses his concern for our environment, and analyzes the historical perspective of some of our nation's most notable possessions — the fabulous redwoods, the Florida Everglades, Grand Canyon and the lordly Mississippi River.

Fire Hazard Story Unfair

Lincoln, Neb.

We at the Radisson Cornhusker were concerned by some inaccuracies in the mention of our hotel ("Column A", Feb. 17) pertaining to potential fire danger in downtown buildings. While the topic of the story — fire hazards in older buildings — is certainly important for all residents of the Lincoln area, the statements made about the Cornhusker were misleading and inaccurate.

For example, the story noted as a safety hazard that "two fire exit stairwells in the Cornhusker Hotel lead to the same lobby."

The fact that both fire stairwells in the Cornhusker lead to the same lobby does not represent a safety hazard in the hotel because both stairwells also lead to several other exits from the building — a fact not mentioned in the story.

The south stairwell provides exit from the hotel through the employee entrance and ballroom exits and the north stairwell provides exits through the west ballroom. If a fire were to break out in the Cornhusker, occupants of the building could leave the building from several different exits or through the lobby by using the stairwells.

The story also stated that the Cornhusker Hotel "probably" has long, dead-end hallways where people could be trapped if a fire broke out between them and the exit.

In fact, the hallways in the Cornhusker provide access to the fire-proof escape towers and are no more hazardous than the hallways of any other hotel or office building.

We feel that the Lincoln Star was unfair to the Cornhusker by including it in a story headlined "Inferno Potential" based on the shallow points made in the story. More thorough research would have revealed that the Cornhusker:

- currently meets all applicable city fire codes.
- has a history of excellent cooperation with the city fire department on making requested improvements relating to fire safety.

- recently installed a sprinkler system in the basement level at the request of the fire department to further diminish fire hazards.

- is undergoing a continuing renovation program under the ownership of the Radisson Hotel Corporation which has already invested more than $1 million for improvements in the facility.

We would appreciate your sharing this information with your readers — particularly since the information we consider misleading and inaccurate appeared on Page 1, prime position in your publication thus giving it a higher readership.

Stop The Spending

Lincoln, Neb.

Recent reports by the news media are to the effect that the average cost of maintaining each of our U.S. congressmen is in the area of one and a quarter million dollars. It is no wonder that congressmen are willing to spend so lavishly in order to be reelected. In the last general election it was reported that Sen. McGovern spent almost $2 million in winning.

I understand also that a congressional committee has been given the power to set the salaries of congressmen without approval of the entire body.

Since the Democrats have had control of Congress for many years, it is they who must assume the responsibility for the situation as it now exists. I assume also that most of the Republicans went along with the majority.

The mass of voters are helpless to correct, if necessary, the spending folly of Congress. The news media could do the job, but they, too, would be hampered by political pressure.

I am writing to my congressman expressing my concern and asking him what can be done. I hope every voter will do the same. This can be a start in correcting the situation. Why not try it?

C. V. KELLER

Holland, Neb.

Our Legislature is once again under pressure to enact a motorcycle helmet law. The federal government is dangling $7 million in blackmail money before it on one side, and well-meaning, but misguided, citizens are asking it to protect riders against themselves on the other.

Those of us who wish to retain the freedom we hold today must reaffirm our will to defend them in the face of even the smallest challenge — otherwise they will become lost in a tangle of protection legislation to the extent that every choice involving risk (which is to say every choice) will be regulated.

Americans have developed such a fear of death that some of us will go to any means to prolong life — even to the point of merely existing. And to remove one's individual right to determine which risks he chooses to make is to force him into a life of mere existence.

At times when decisions of this type are to be made we must think back to the time when our country was founded, and review its basic concepts to judge if we are straying from its path.

We are being bombarded increasingly with laws meant to protect us from ourselves instead of others. I suggest that the greatest need today is for laws to protect us from our own government.

Tiwald's Stand Praised

Lincoln, Neb.

Last week I attended a coffee which was held for City Council candidate Steve Tiwald. I was pleased to hear Mr. Tiwald say that we need crosstown bus service in Lincoln and more frequent buses. He also said that he would support a central waiting terminal in the downtown area.

I hope other council candidates are as concerned as Mr. Tiwald is about citizens who ride the buses in this city — especially older citizens like myself.

MRS. KING A. RICHEY

C. L. SULZBERGER

Edge Of Uncertainty

AMMAN, Jordan — King Hussein of Jordan is personally more involved with the question of Arab-Israeli peace than any other Arab chief of state for the simple reason, as he puts it, that four generations of his family have been linked directly to Jerusalem.

His great-grandfather is buried there and his grandfather was slain there by an assassin. Hussein himself was for long generally acknowledged to be the leader in charge of Palestinian Arab efforts to regain lands lost to Israel in 1967.

All that was changed by the Arab summit meeting in Rabat last autumn that formally assigned responsibility for recovering such territory to the Palestine Liberation Organization (P.L.O.) of Yasser Arafat. "Now for Jordan," says Hussein, "there is no longer a direct role. And in the international arena we stand behind P.L.O. claims."

Because of the changed political status one can detect hints of new diplomatic attitudes here. A Soviet delegation is visiting Jordan this month — "the first we have ever had despite years of diplomatic relations," Hussein says, adding: "We don't know the reason" for Moscow's interest. He also says "I have no reason not to talk with Arafat" although "at this stage" no problem requires such a meeting. The two men were formerly open enemies.

The king insists Jordan now has "extremely good relations" with all Arab states. And he places great hopes in new negotiations this week as Secretary Kissinger returns to the Middle East.

The big thing, he says, "is to regain a momentum toward peace. Otherwise the situation could deteriorate and lead to another disaster." He has high regard for Kissinger's negotiating talents and doesn't think (as do some other Arabs) that Egypt has any interest in seeking a separate accord with Israel.

For him the situation seems to boil down simply to Israel's readiness to accept a return to its 1967 borders (before the Six-Day-War) and face the question — territory or peace? "It is hard for Israel to choose," he concedes, "but that is the critical issue."

Nevertheless, Hussein has doubts on which turning Israel will take. He says: "If, in the immediate future, Israel changes its basic line, there is ultimately great hope. But it now looks as if they are working above all to create a military machine the like of which has never before existed in this part of the world."

"If Israel continues along such lines it must obviously lose world support. And many people suspect they are seeking to delay progress in the assumption that next year you will have U.S. elections and the situation can be frozen."

"But this is a serious mistake. We must have progress toward peace — or we will have a more serious war than ever before. You can't have a no-war-no-peace situation that doesn't eventually wind up in war."

Hussein is today a voice of offstage as compared with his position prior to last autumn. But he is intensely concerned with the entire complex of issues embracing the geographical area of Palestine and its Israeli and Arab components. Therefore, he has a particular background of expertise and one cannot say that, as Kissinger returns to these parts, the king's views glow with excess optimism.

MARQUIS CHILDS

The Flames Of Wrath

WASHINGTON — Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois who, prior to Gerald Ford's ascendancy, dabbled with the idea of running for President, has never been known as a man of exceptional daring.

Yet not long ago, by speaking the unspeakable, he set himself up as a kind of one-man laboratory to test reactions in this country on the explosive issue of support for Israel.

Returning from a three-and-a-half week trip to 12 Middle East capitals, he said Israel could no longer count on automatic support from the United States. He had told Israeli leaders that if they launched a pre-emptive strike against the Arab states they could not expect the backing of this country. Israel's request for $2.5 billion in military aid was unrealistic and would have rough sledding in Congress, he said.

The senator did not have to wait long for the reaction. The Jewish community came down on him like a ton of bricks. A seasoned political reporter in Chicago covering a meeting Percy held with a Zionist group said afterward he had never heard such violent emotions expressed. Catcalls and angry denunciations sounded throughout the hall so that the senator had trouble in making himself heard.

Percy professed to be astonished at the violence of the reaction, particularly since he had long been a friend of Israel and had spoken repeatedly at Israel bond drive rallies. He explained that he had said the same things in Jerusalem to Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and Foreign Minister Yigal Allon and they had understood.

Why shouldn't there be the same freedom of expression in the United States, he asked.

Some moderates in the Jewish community told Percy privately they understood what he was saying and perhaps the need to say it at this time. But he got little or no outspoken support from any quarter and while the furor subsided it will not soon be forgotten.

An Offering Of Bullets

NEW YORK — While President Ford and Professor Kissinger were whooping it up for more war in Cambodia the other day, Sydney Schanberg was writing for the New York Times from Phnom Penh. If we juxtapose excerpts from Schanberg, Ford and Kissinger, we begin to understand how American policy relates to Cambodian reality.

Thus, Schanberg: Cambodia before the war was a country so rich in her food produce that even the very poor were never hungry. Everyone had a piece of land and there were always bananas and other fruit growing wild and a river or stream nearby where fish could be easily caught.

"I wish to convey to the House of Representatives my deep concern over the present critical situation in Cambodia. An independent Cambodia cannot survive unless the Congress acts very soon to provide supplemental military and economic assistance." — President Ford.

Now it is a country of landless nomads with empty stomachs — human flotsam living amid damp and filth in the filthiest of shanties, thatched shacks and lean-tos. The countryside is charred wasteland that either belongs to the Cambodian insurgents or is insecure, so the population huddles in the cities and towns, doing marginal work that never pays enough to feed a family adequately. Growing numbers of children and adults are taking to begging.

"Unless such assistance is provided (by the Congress) the Cambodian army will run out of ammunition in less than a month." — President Ford.

In a World Vision clinic, Ah Srey, a 2-month-old girl, grossly dehydrated from starvation, has just been brought in by her grandmother. Ten days before, they were caught in the maelstrom of a battle a few miles from Phnom Penh. For ten days they had been surviving on handouts and scraps of garbage. The child had been malnourished before. Now she is a skeletal horror — little more than bulging eyes and a protruding rib cage. Every few seconds she produces a wail that racks her body. In three hours she is dead.

"If a supplemental is not voted within the next few weeks, it is certain that Cambodia must fall because it will run out of ammunition." — Professor Kissinger.

Waves of mothers carrying gravely ill children — swollen children, children with stick-like concentration-camp bodies, children with parchment skin hanging in flaccid folds, coughing children, weeping children, silent children too weak to respond anymore — press forward every day against the doors of the relief agency clinics, desperate to get in.

"Therefore, the decision before us is whether the United States will withhold ammunition from a country which has been associated with us and which, clearly, wishes to defend itself." — Professor Kissinger.

On the table next to Ah Srey is an older child — 19 months — who is dying right now. His name is Nuth Sareoun. From his mouth comes a steady whimper and rattle. His father was killed by a rocket three months ago. His 25-year-old mother, also suffering from malnutrition (she has beri-beri and her feet are going numb), stands at his side sobbing. A doctor tries to force a tube down the child's throat to get out the mucus that is blocking his breathing. Suddenly the child utters a tiny cry that sounds like "mak" ("mother") and then his head slumps and he is gone.

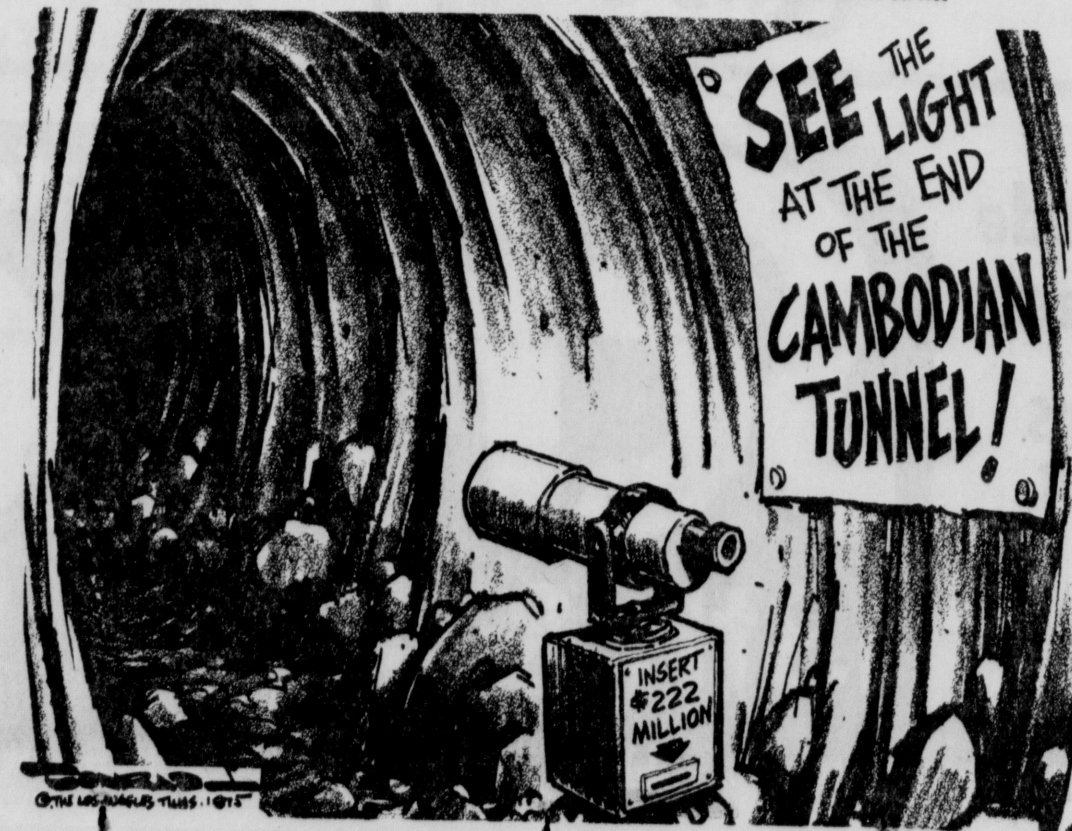

"If the Congress does not provide for continued deliveries of rice and other essential supplies, millions of innocent people will suffer — people who depend on us for their bare survival." — President Ford.

Americans have stepped up an emergency airlift of supplies from Thailand because the insurgents have blockaded Cambodia's main supply line, the Mekong River, but until now the cargo these planes have brought is all military aid, mostly ammunition. There has been no food.

"Our national security and the integrity of our alliances depend upon our reputation as a reliable partner. Countries around the world who depend on us for support — as well as our foes — will judge our performance." — President Ford.

At least every other person in this country of seven million is a refugee from war.

Monkey On Their Back

The Legislature has placed a monkey firmly on the back of public power agencies throughout the state. The burden of responsibility is there as a result of passage of a bill permitting joint power agency construction of electric generation and transmission facilities.

This is a measure that was defeated a year ago in the face of divided interest on the part of the various power groups. The major stumbling block at that time was the fear of the Nebraska Public Power District that other agencies would enter into combinations resulting in the duplication of the NPPD statewide distribution system.

While this fear has apparently been somewhat allayed, it remains as the major challenge to the validity of the newly enacted legislation. That legislation will be good or bad for the future of Nebraska depending upon the intelligence with which it is implemented by utility groups.

The purpose of the measure is to permit the flexibility that is needed at this time to meet the challenge of rising demands for power and resulting capital investment loads. It is largely a matter of giving to public power groups in the state the means of meeting their financial needs.

It is not intended that the utilities use the legislation to compete with one another, to construct facilities that duplicate those now in existence. If it is used to build empires and to satisfy petty jealousies, it will be an aborted piece of legislation.

Rather than saving the people of Nebraska money on their electric bills, it would cost them money because duplication is a costly waste. From what we can tell, there is no effective means by which such duplication can be halted under the law.

The utilities themselves will have to supply the discipline by which needless construction is not undertaken. Urging them on toward that end should be the reality that abuse of the law will surely lead to more restrictive measures in some future session of the Legislature.

If the power agencies want the freedom of operation they need, they will have to prove they are worthy of such a public trust and the new law provides them with just such a test.

The Question Of Aid

Events in Indochina have taken a curious turn so far as this nation is concerned since the return of the congressional fact-finding delegation.

Taken by the plight of the Cambodian civilians and the population of Phnom Penh, defended against the communist-supplied insurgents by a shrinking perimeter of government troops under Premier Lon Nol, the delegation is recommending continued medical and food assistance and has split on the question of military aid with a slight majority favoring enough aid for ammunition to supply the Cambodian government troops until the rainy season slows insurgent activity or until a settlement with the Khmer Rouge can be negotiated. Only Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., seems to be totally opposed to additional military aid.

The delegation's agonizing comes against a background of reported opposition by Secy. of State Henry Kissinger to a major new diplomatic offensive by the United States. He is said to think such a venture futile because of the overwhelming strategic superiority of the communist-backed forces.

For the moment, the aid to Indochina question is on the back burner because of the intense focus on the efforts of the President and the Congress to come to some sort of agreement on economic and energy programs.

But inevitably and soon the question which seemingly won't go away will have to be faced. How much more time can we and will we buy them?

In view of the military situation and the lack of stomach the U.S. apparently has for mounting a political or diplomatic offensive any answer but "none" would seem illogical.

Most Americans would be hard put to deny anybody's request for medicine and rice but money for more bullets in a lost cause is something else again.

As Mrs. Abzug said, it's about time we placed the emphasis on securing peace rather than paying for more war.

This can go on for only so long. Should additional military aid allow the Phnom Penh perimeter to hold out past this coming June and the rains, what happens when it dries up again? And then there is the question of Vietnam.

Beneath The Snow Cover

The snow in the yard will not yield. The above-freezing temperatures of gray February's last days were not enough. Very March-like weather does not improve the situation, at least not at a rapid pace.

While many of Lincoln's lawns have that undistinguished but hopeful mushy brown look, in our tree-covered section of town the neighbors' yards and our own look like alpine timber country in the Never-Summer range. Winter lingers, the grubby snow cover retreats grudgingly.

The bird bath pedestal is finding some relief. Now a full half foot of it can be seen. But the tulips on the north side would have to grow three feet tall to pop above the dingy, icy mound that now covers their bed.

But it is now only two weeks or so til spring. And after what we consider to be a fairly decent winter, we can't complain too much.

The seeds from our favorite German variety tomato, which we always start inside too early each year because we can't wait, have germinated in record time. The seedlings are robust and straining toward the sun which comes in the south windows of the den. We were poking around beneath the snow and under the mulch in the yard last weekend looking for new green things creeping up from below. They are there, whatever they are.

Today when I washed the dishes, I dropped a glass lemonade squeezer . . . the old hand-twisting kind, not a part of the modern electric squeezers that come as an attachment with an appliance. It bounced on the floor, spun around several times and rolled off to the side of the kitchen while The Farmer and I watched, waiting for it to shatter. It didn't receive a single glass chip.

"That's made of good stuff," said The Farmer in dismay.

"Yes, that's the way things were made back in the forties," I answered. "This lemon squeezer was one we bought when we were married back in 1941. If it could take such a fall without breaking, it will probably be good for another thirty-four years — much longer than we will survive, no doubt."

A lot of lemons have been squeezed in its day for lemonade and pies. If I had the ambition, I would bake a flaky pie crust and fill it with a tangy lemon filling and top it with a meringue. But ambition is hard to come by at three o'clock in the afternoon.

One of my favorite lemon pie fillings is made with milk. It has been in my recipe file for years. It has a rich creamy texture and so delicious! Perhaps I can say that is my pie in the sky. Some build castles in the air and others day-dream of far-off shores. Me? I stack pies, one above the other, delicious crusty, rich pies while I do some wishful thinking. There's blueberry, rhubarb, cherry, sour cream raisin, apple, strawberry chiffon, lemon cream, pineapple meringue and chocolate fluff.

To stack my pies a bit higher, I might add banana cream, peach praline, lime angel, custard, black bottom, pumpkin, mince-meat, butterscotch and heavenly orange meringue pie. This doesn't include pecan, fruit sive fertilizer, seed and fuel and hope for better prices later. It does not seem reasonable to plant a crop this spring that is going to lose money before it can be reaped. He is not certain that the wheat has come through the winter this year. Several farmers think their fields will have to be torn up and replanted to other crops this spring.

Perhaps the farmers will have to refrain from raising the standard variety of grains and glut the market with black-eyed peas.

I have been reading a very interesting book titled, "This Bright Land," written by Brooks Atkinson. I have found this to be a very informative book since Mr. Atkinson has a reverence for the out-of-doors as well as for the systems of nature. He expresses his concern for our environment, and analyzes the historical perspective of some of our nation's most notable possessions — the fabulous redwoods, the Florida Everglades, Grand Canyon and the lordly Mississippi River.

Fire Hazard Story Unfair

We at the Radisson Cornhusker were concerned by some inaccuracies in the mention of our hotel ("Column A", Feb. 17) pertaining to potential fire danger in downtown buildings. While the topic of the story — fire hazards in older buildings — is certainly important for all residents of the Lincoln area, the statements made about the Cornhusker were misleading and inaccurate.

For example, the story noted as a safety hazard that "two fire exit stairwells in the Cornhusker Hotel lead to the same lobby."

The fact that both fire stairwells in the Cornhusker lead to the same lobby does not represent a safety hazard in the hotel because both stairwells also lead to several other exits from the building — a fact not mentioned in the story.

The south stairwell provides exit from the hotel through the employe entrance and ballroom exits and the north stairwell provides exits through the west ballroom. If a fire were to break out in the Cornhusker, occupants of the building could leave the building from several different exits or through the lobby by using the stairwells.

The story also stated that the Cornhusker Hotel "probably" has long, dead-end hallways where people could be trapped if a fire broke out between them and the exit.

In fact, the hallways in the Cornhusker provide access to the fire-proof escape towers and are no more hazardous than the hallways of any other hotel or office building.

We feel that the Lincoln Star was unfair to the Cornhusker by including it in a story headlined "Inferno Potential" based on the shallow points made in the story. More thorough research would have revealed that the Cornhusker:

- currently meets all applicable city fire codes;
- has a history of excellent cooperation with the city fire department on making requested improvements relating to fire safety;
- recently installed a sprinkler system in the basement level at the request of the fire department to further diminish fire hazards;
- is undergoing a continuing renovation program under the ownership of the Radisson Hotel Corporation which has already invested more than $1 million for improvements in the facility.

We would appreciate your sharing this information with your readers — particularly since the information we consider misleading and inaccurate appeared on Page 1, prime position in your publication thus giving it a higher readership.

Stop The Spending

Recent reports by the news media are to the effect that the average cost of maintaining each of our U.S. congressmen is in the area of one and a quarter million dollars. It is no wonder that congressmen are willing to spend so lavishly in order to be reelected. In the last general election it was reported that Sen. McGovern spent almost $2 million in winning.

I understand also that a congressional committee has been given the power to set the salaries of congressmen without approval of the entire body.

Since the Democrats have had control of Congress for many years, it is they who must assume the responsibility for the situation as it now exists. I assume also that most of the Republicans went along with the majority.

The mass of voters are helpless to correct, if necessary, the spending folly of Congress. The news media could do the job, but they, too, would be hampered by political pressure.

I am writing to my congressman expressing my concern and asking him what can be done. I hope every voter will do the same. This can be a start in correcting the situation. Why not try it?

A Tangle of Laws

Our Legislature is once again under pressure to enact a motorcycle helmet law. The federal government is dangling $7 million in blackmail money before it on one side, and well-meaning, but misguided, citizens are asking it to protect riders against themselves on the other.

Those of us who wish to retain the freedom we hold today must reaffirm our will to defend them in the face of even the smallest challenge — otherwise they will become lost in a tangle of protection legislation to the extent that every choice involving risk (which is to say every choice) will be regulated.

Americans have developed such a fear of death that some of us will go to any means to prolong life — even to the point of merely existing. And to remove one's individual right to determine which risks he chooses to make is to force him into a life of mere existence.

At times when decisions of this type are to be made we must think back to the time when our country was founded, and review its basic concepts to judge if we are straying from its path.

We are being bombarded increasingly with laws meant to protect us from ourselves instead of others. I suggest that the greatest need today is for laws to protect us from our own government.

Tiwald's Stand Praised

Last week I attended a coffee which was held for City Council candidate Steve Tiwald. I was pleased to hear Mr. Tiwald say that we need cross-town bus service in Lincoln and more frequent buses. He also said that he would support a central waiting terminal in the downtown area.

I hope other council candidates are as concerned as Mr. Tiwald is about citizens who ride the buses in this city — especially older citizens like myself.

MRS. KING A. RICHEY

C. L. SULZBERGER

Edge Of Uncertainty

AMMAN, Jordan — King Hussein of Jordan is personally more involved with the question of Arab-Israeli peace than any other Arab chief of state for the simple reason, as he puts it, that four generations of his family have been linked directly to Jerusalem.

His great-grandfather is buried there and his grandfather was slain there by an assassin. Hussein himself was for long generally acknowledged to be the leader in charge of Palestinian Arab efforts to regain lands lost to Israel in 1967.

All that was changed by the Arab summit meeting in Rabat last autumn that formally assigned responsibility for recovering such territory to the Palestine Liberation Organization (P.L.O.) of Yasser Arafat. "Now for Jordan," says Hussein, "there is no longer a direct role. And in the international arena we stand behind P.L.O. claims."

Because of the changed political status one can detect hints of new diplomatic attitudes here. A Soviet delegation is visiting Jordan this month — "the first we have ever had despite years of diplomatic relations," Hussein says, adding: "We don't know the reason" for Moscow's interest. He also says "I have no reason not to talk with Arafat" although "at this stage" no problem requires such a meeting. The two men were formerly open enemies.

The king insists Jordan now has "extremely good relations" with all Arab states. And he places great hopes in new negotiations this week as Secretary Kissinger returns to the Middle East.

The big thing, he says, "is to regain a momentum toward peace. Otherwise the situation could deteriorate and lead to another disaster." He has high regard for Kissinger's negotiating talents and doesn't think (as do some other Arabs) that Egypt has any interest in seeking a separate accord with Israel.

For him the situation seems to boil down simply to Israel's readiness to accept a return to its 1967 borders (before the Six-Day War) and face the question — territory or peace? "It is hard for Israel to choose," he concedes, "but that is the critical issue." Nevertheless, Hussein has doubts on which turning Israel will take. He says: "If, in the immediate future, Israel changes its basic line, there is ultimately great hope. But it now looks as if they are working above all to create a military machine the like of which has never before existed in this part of the world."

"If Israel continues along such lines it must obviously lose world support. And many people suspect they are seeking to delay progress in the assumption that next year you will have U.S. elections and the situation can be frozen."

"But this is a serious mistake. We must have progress toward peace — or we will have a more serious war than ever before. You can't have a no-war-no-peace situation that doesn't eventually wind up in war."

Hussein is today a voice ofstake as compared with his position prior to last autumn. But he is intensely concerned with the entire complex of issues embracing the geographical area of Palestine and its Israeli and Arab components. Therefore, he has a particular background of expertise and one cannot say that, as Kissinger returns to these parts, the king's views glow with excess optimism.

MARQUIS CHILDS

The Flames Of Wrath

WASHINGTON — Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois who, prior to Gerald Ford's ascendancy, dallied with the idea of running for President, has never been known as a man of exceptional daring.

Yet not long ago, by speaking the unspeakable, he set himself up as a kind of one-man laboratory to test reactions in this country on the explosive issue of support for Israel.

Returning from a three-and-a-half week trip to 12 Middle East capitals, he said Israel could no longer count on automatic support from the United States. He had told Israeli leaders that if they launched a pre-emptive strike against the Arab states they could not expect the backing of this country. Israel's request for $2.5 billion in military aid was unrealistic and would have rough sledding in Congress, he said.

The senator did not have to wait long for the reaction. The Jewish community came down on him like a ton of bricks. A seasoned political reporter in Chicago covering a meeting Percy held with a Zionist group said afterward he had never heard such violent emotions expressed. Catcalls and angry denunciations sounded throughout the hall so that the senator had trouble in making himself heard.

Pari-Mutuel Tax Hike Opposed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Spokesmen for horse racetracks, owners, breeders and trainers plus a highly vociferous Omaha "racing fan" Wednesday attacked Sen. Loran Schmit's proposed million dollar increase in the state's pari-mutuel tax.

The Bellwood senator's LB396 would hike the tax on each track's betting handle of more than $1 million from 5% to 6%.

An additional one per cent would be lifted from the betting handle for distribution between the track and the horsemen. That would leave 83% in the mutual pool.

Increased revenue for the state would be about $1 million a year, Schmit said.

Fifteen percent is now taken from the handle, with 5% going to the state and 10% divided equally between the track and the horsemen.

Nebraska's racetracks at Omaha, Lincoln, Grand Island, Columbus and South Sioux City fear that the tax boost would adversely affect attendance and betting, according to Robert Skochdopole of Omaha, speaking for the Thoroughbred Racing Association of Nebraska.

School Aid Bill Said Limited 'Shot In Arm'

By United Press International

A state aid to schools bill which one supporter admitted would at best be "a short-time shot in the arms" was heard Wednesday by the Legislature's Appropriations Committee.

Don Hall, Milligan superintendent of schools, gave that assessment while commenting on Sen. Richard Maresh's LB336, which proposes tacking $50 million onto Nebraska's annual state aid law.

Perhaps, Hall told the committee, an amendment could be incorporated into the measure to provide for additional aid as the need arises.

The extra $50 million would be taken from state income tax receipts and this feature won Hall's endorsement "because I feel the sales tax is regressive" and hits hardest those least able to pay taxes.

It has been estimated the Maresh bill would require hiking the state income tax 4 to 5%.

Howard Glenn, Bruning superintendent of schools, said past state aid bills penalized small districts heavily. His district would receive about $25,000 annually under the Maresh bill, or approximately what 3.5 mills raises currently.

Maresh said he figured LB336 would provide $158 for each public school student across the state. His estimate was that Omaha would receive $9.3 million, the equivalent of what 11.06 mills raises. For Lincoln, he said, the figures would be $4.5 million and 10.30 mills, and for Chappell, $59,491 and 4.94 mills. Distribution of the aid would be based on Nebraska's average daily attendance, which in 1974-75 was 315,300. The funds would begin flowing to schools on Sept. 30, 1976.

"You could be riding a gift horse to death," horse breeder W. G. McCubbin of Elkhorn said, speaking for the Nebraska Thoroughbred Breeders Assn., and the Nebraska County Fair Managers Assn.

In the long run, the bill would "injure the sport," Lincoln attorney Hal Bauer said, speaking for the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Assn.

But the most vehement opposition was expressed by Leo Laine of Omaha, a self-described "racing fan."

Schmit, he said, is "to racing fans what Hitler was to the Jews."

Race fans are "the most persecuted minority" in America, he said, a group badly in need of a liberation movement of their own.

Quoting from Confucius and Barry Goldwater, from Harry Truman and the Bible, Laine urged members of the Legislature's Revenue Committee to "make your grandchildren proud of you . . . by voting to kill the bill."

Race fans are already overtaxed, he said, suggesting that "people who don't drink, smoke or bet aren't paying their fair share."

The 5% tax now raises some $4.5 million a year. Some 1.3 million fans bet some $95.5 million at Nebraska tracks in 1974.

Those figures would not decrease with an additional 1% tax, Schmit argued. They didn't in 1973 when he won legislative consent to boost the tax from 4% to 5%, he noted.

"The king of sports is able to bear its share of the cost of government," Schmit said. "The tracks can stand it better than the people can stand the sales tax on food."

Schmit offered an amendment which would distribute a portion of the revenue to the five cities which host race meetings in order to reimburse them for additional expenses incurred as a result of the tracks, but the committee turned a disinterested eye at that proposal.

The bill was held for later action.

Renewal Bond Amendment OKd

By The Associated Press
The Legislature Wednesday sent a constitutional amendment to the voters which would allow cities to issue bonds for redevelopment of blighted areas.

The bonds would be paid off by increased property taxes generated by the increased value of the redeveloped area.

The amendment, proposed by Omaha Sen. John Cavanaugh, was placed on the general election ballot by a vote of 31-17. The total of 31 included the vote of Omaha Sen. Ernest Chambers, who changed his vote from no to yes for purposes of reconsideration.

Chambers, who said the amendment would allow cities to raze residential districts for industrial development, said he would ask the Legislature to reconsider its action and take the proposed amendment off the November 1976 election ballot.

If approved by the people, the bond measure would not become effective unless implemented by legislation. The amendment was proposed as LB260.

A second constitutional amendment proposed by Cavanaugh was defeated earlier by the Legislature. It would have allowed homeowners in residential areas to remodel their houses without paying increased property taxes.

Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue made a motion Wednesday to reconsider the unfavorable action the Legislature took on Cavanaugh's second constitutional amendment, LB98.

Child Abuse Bill Sent Back For Second Hearing

By The Associated Press

After getting bogged down in debate over amendments, the Legislature sent a bill revising state law on reporting child abuse cases back for another committee hearing.

Before returning the bill, senators approved an amendment including Lancaster County as well as Douglas County in a requirement that reports be made to the protective services division of local welfare agencies.

Sen. Shirley Marsh of Lincoln objected to that provision, and changed her no vote to yes to enable later reconsideration of the change.

The bill, LB20, now goes back to the Judiciary Committee for another public hearing.

Pari-Mutuel Tax Hike Opposed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Spokesmen for horse racetracks, owners, breeders and trainers plus a highly vociferous Omaha "racing fan" Wednesday attacked Sen. Loran Schmit's proposed million dollar increase in the state's pari-mutuel tax.

The Bellwood senator's LB396 would hike the tax on each track's betting handle of more than $1 million from 5% to 6%.

An additional one per cent would be lifted from the betting handle for distribution between the track and the horsemen. That would leave 83% in the mutual pool.

Increased revenue for the state would be about $1 million a year, Schmit said.

Fifteen percent is now taken from the handle, with 5% going to the state and 10% divided equally between the track and the horsemen.

Nebraska's racetracks at Omaha, Lincoln, Grand Island, Columbus and South Sioux City fear that the tax boost would adversely affect attendance and betting, according to Robert Skochdopole of Omaha, speaking for the Thoroughbred Racing Association of Nebraska.

"You could be riding a gift horse to death," horse breeder W. G. McCubbin of Elkhorn said, speaking for the Nebraska Thoroughbred Breeders Assn., and the Nebraska County Fair Managers Assn.

In the long run, the bill would "injure the sport," Lincoln attorney Hal Bauer said, speaking for the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Assn.

But the most vehement opposition was expressed by Leo Laine of Omaha, a self-described "racing fan."

Schmit, he said, is "to racing fans what Hitler was to the Jews."

Race fans are "the most persecuted minority" in America, he said, a group badly in need of a liberation movement of their own.

Quoting from Confucius and Barry Goldwater, from Harry Truman and the Bible, Laine urged members of the Legislature's Revenue Committee to "make your grandchildren proud of you . . . by voting to kill the bill."

Race fans are already overtaxed, he said, suggesting that "people who don't drink, smoke or bet aren't paying their fair share."

The 5% tax now raises some $4.5 million a year. Some 1.3 million fans bet some $95.5 million at Nebraska tracks in 1974.

Those figures would not decrease with an additional 1% tax, Schmit argued. They didn't in 1973 when he won legislative consent to boost the tax from 4% to 5%, he noted.

"The king of sports is able to bear its share of the cost of government," Schmit said. "The tracks can stand it better than the people can stand the sales tax on food."

Schmit offered an amendment which would distribute a portion of the revenue to the five cities which host race meetings in order to reimburse them for additional expenses incurred as a result of the tracks, but the committee turned a disinterested eye at that proposal.

The bill was held for later action.

School Aid Bill Said Limited 'Shot In Arm'

By United Press International

A state aid to schools bill which one supporter admitted would at best be "a short-time shot in the arms" was heard Wednesday by the Legislature's Appropriations Committee.

Don Hall, Milligan superintendent of schools, gave that assessment while commenting on Sen. Richard Maresh's LB336, which proposes tacking $50 million onto Nebraska's annual state aid law.

Perhaps, Hall told the committee, an amendment could be incorporated into the measure to provide for additional aid as the need arises.

The extra $50 million would be taken from state income tax receipts and this feature won Hall's endorsement "because I feel the sales tax is regressive" and hits hardest those least able to pay taxes.

It has been estimated the Maresh bill would require hiking the state income tax 4 to 5%.

Howard Glenn, Bruning superintendent of schools, said past state aid bills penalized small districts heavily. His district would receive about $25,000 annually under the Maresh bill, or approximately what 3.5 mills raises currently.

Maresh said he figured LB336 would provide $158 for each public school student across the state. His estimate was that Omaha would receive $9.3 million, the equivalent of what 11.06 mills raises. For Lincoln, he said, the figures would be $4.5 million and 10.30 mills, and for Chappell, $59,491 and 4.94 mills. Distribution of the aid would be based on Nebraska's average daily attendance, which in 1974-75 was 315,300. The funds would begin flowing to schools on Sept. 30, 1976.

Cosmetology Funding Hit But Retained

By United Press International

Sen. Ralph Kelly of Grand Island was unsuccessful Wednesday when he tried to pull back an appropriations bill, LB537, in order to strike funding for a cosmetology program at the Metro Technical College in Omaha.

The measure remained on the Legislative board just one step away from final consideration.

Kelly said the program envisioned at Metro Tech would be "a direct invasion of the state into private business" because there are many cosmetology schools in Nebraska.

Among those opposing Kelly was Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha, who said "for too long in Omaha, we've had unscrupulous (cosmetology) schools." He added not all of them fell into the category.

Sen. John Cavanaugh of Omaha said the state requires licensing of cosmetologists and the state technical colleges are mandated to give persons attending them the tools for leading meaningful and productive lives.

According to Sen. William Skarda of Omaha, 18 of the 23 Nebraska cosmetology schools are on probation. Sen. Glenn Goodrich said half of the cosmetology school graduates flunk the state licensing exams.

Child Abuse Bill Sent Back For Second Hearing

By The Associated Press

After getting bogged down in debate over amendments, the Legislature sent a bill revising state law on reporting child abuse cases back for another committee hearing.

Before returning the bill, senators approved an amendment including Lancaster County as well as Douglas County in a requirement that reports be made to the protective services division of local welfare agencies.

Sen. Shirley Marsh of Lincoln objected to that provision, and changed her no vote to yes to enable later reconsideration of the change.

The bill, LB20, now goes back to the Judiciary Committee for another public hearing.

Mysteries Surround Missing Person Files

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

One day they are no longer there. The void is filled with apprehension, bewilderment and sadness. They leave the question, "Why?" on the lips of family, friends and the police. The stories are found in the files police keep on missing persons. Thousands of missing persons are reported every day. More than 550 were reported last year in Lincoln alone.

Many Quickly Solved
Many of the cases are soon closed. A young girl who ran away with a boyfriend. A businessman who went on a week-long drunk. Almost all leave behind some clue as to why they left and where they are going.

But in the missing person files are special stories, tales of genuine mystery, shadowed with the threat of death.

One such story is that of Debra Forycki. Another is that of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oliva Sr. A third is that of Curtis Burney.

Of the three the Burney case is the oldest. It's been on the books since November 1969. On Nov. 22 Curtis Burney, 63, and his wife drove to Beatrice from their home in DeWitt.

In downtown Beatrice Burney began making a turn. His wife admonished him to watch his driving, he was turning the wrong direction onto a one-way street.

Never Seen Again
Burney stopped the car in the lane of traffic, got out, walked around the back of the car and has never been seen since.

The Gage County sheriff's office and the Beatrice police department conducted a widespread search. Officers and police dogs scoured the banks of the Blue River. Officers checked buildings in Beatrice.

People in the area were interviewed. Lie detector tests were given. "We worked on it for three months solid, and periodically after that," Beatrice Police Capt. Eldin Waltke said. "We've never come up with anything."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oliva, both in their late 70's, disappeared July 29, 1973, from their home in Wilber.

They spent the day driving around town in their 1958 Chevrolet, according to a number of people who saw them. In the evening they stopped at their home. "Someone saw them go in and come right back out. Mrs. Oliva had changed from her street clothes into a housecoat.

No luggage, clothes or money were taken from their home. Mary Oliva, who had heart trouble, left her purse on a table. It contained heart medication.

At 10 p.m. that night someone spotted the couple driving into Legion Park on the south edge of Wilber. They have not been seen since. Their car has never been found.

The Saline County sheriff's office has spent hundreds of hours on the case. The county was canvassed on foot and by car. Scores of people were interviewed.

This January an oil slick surfaced in a sandpit at Wilber, stirring speculation that the source of the oil may be the Oliva car.

A cave-in at the sandpit may have covered the auto, law enforcement authorities theorize, before it was searched by divers.

The pit will be searched again this summer. If this search is futile, according to Sheriff Ed Prokopt, the case may go unsolved.

'No Other Leads'
"There aren't any other leads," Debra Forycki disappeared from her Lincoln apartment at 1106 S. 20th on Oct. 3, 1974.

The last trace police have been able to find of the pretty blonde coed is a report by a neighbor who heard the door to her apartment slam at about 11:30 a.m.

Miss Forycki, a UNL senior majoring in French, did not keep a luncheon appointment at a downtown restaurant and did not report for work at Brandeis at 2:20 p.m.

Police have never been able to trace her path from the apartment building where she lived with another young woman.

She did not take clothes or money. She had a paycheck waiting for her at Brandeis. She did not own a car and police have established that she did not take the bus or a cab from the apartment.

'Not On Own Accord'
"My wife and I and her friends don't believe she left on her own accord," her father once said. "She's not on dope and she wasn't pregnant."

Police have amassed a stack of reports about two inches thick on the case. Flyers have been distributed across the country. Her father has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to her safe return.

"We don't have a thing," admitted Lincoln Police Capt. Roger LaPage. They all simply vanished.

Reader Is Nauseated By Amputee's Eating

DEAR ABBY: An incident happened about two months ago, and I can't seem to get it out of my mind. In fact, when I think of it, it still repulses me, and I'd like to know if you think I'm wrong to feel this way.

My mom and I were eating lunch during the rush hour at a fairly nice restaurant. A man and a young boy entered together. The man had no arms, just stumps, hanging in full view of all. They sat near us, and ordered their lunch. The man's plate was placed in front of him, and he proceeded to knock it into eating position with his stumps. Then he put his face down into the plate and proceeded to eat just like a dog. I was so nauseated, I couldn't finish my lunch.

I honestly felt sorry for the man, but I also felt that he should not have exposed the people to that kind of scene. Please tell me how you honestly feel about it. It bothers me how much his looks and eating habits repulsed me. Thank you very much.

NO NAME OR PLACE

DEAR NO: You ask: "Am I wrong to feel this way?" Consider this: The armless man had to overcome his self-consciousness and learn how to handle the stares and looks of revulsion from strangers in order to eat in public. (A major victory for him!)

It takes a mature and compassionate person to handle unesthetic situations with grace. I hope you learn to do so because you will need it to deal with life realistically. And if you don't, it will be YOUR problem.

DEAR ABBY: There is this guy who is a year older than me, and a whole lot bigger. The other day he gave me a black eye. I would like to get back at him, but I don't know how to do it. Have you any ideas?

BLACK EYE

DEAR BLACK EYE: Stay out of his way, or you might end up with a matched pair.

DEAR ABBY: In a courtship between a woman 65, and a man 67, who should offer the first kiss?

Please don't think this is a joke. It isn't. I am a widow and he is a widower and we are getting very close to where I will need the answer to the above question.

If he should make the first move in that direction I want to know if I should act coy, or should I respond? Or am I the one who should make the advances to let him know I am not adverse to a romantic relationship? (I am not, but I don't want to push for it.)

Women used to sit back and let the men make all the overtures, but perhaps women's lib has changed all that. Or has it?

PROPER BUT PUZZLED
DEAR PUZZLED: If you feel like kissing him, go ahead and kiss him. He'll probably meet you halfway and beat you to the finish line.

Opening lead - five of hearts.

There is obviously a big difference between a sequence of one spade — one notrump — three spades, and one spade — one notrump — four spades.

A one notrump response indicates 6 to 9 points. Therefore, if the opener's rebid is three spades, he is asking responder whether he has top values for his notrump bid.

Expressed pointwise, responder is being urged to go on with 8 or 9 points, or to pass with 6 or 7. The three spade bid is an invitation—not a command—to responder to bid again.

A four spade bid is made by opener when his hand indicates "a reasonable chance for game even if responder has only 6 or 7 points. This South hand, for example, is so promising for game that he should not risk being dropped at three spades.

Declarer makes the contract if he chooses the right finesse to take at trick two, after his only entry to dummy is forced out by the opening lead. If he finesesses the queen of clubs, he makes the contract; if he takes the trump finesse, he goes down against best defense.

Granting that either finesse has a 50 per cent chance, the club finesse is clearly the better play. Not because it succeeds in the actual deal, but because there is a better chance for the contract by attempting the club finesse.

For practical purposes, the hand is over if the club finesse wins. But if South tries the trump finesse instead, he does not necessarily make the contract if it succeeds. He must still contend with the possibility that East was dealt the K-x-x or K-x-x-x of trumps, in which case he cannot escape a trump loser.

Since the club finesse will make the contract far more often than the trump finesse, it is the right play to make at trick two. It is the percentage play.

At 10 p.m. that night someone spotted the couple driving into Legion Park on the south edge of Wilber. They have not been seen since. Their car has never been found.

The Saline County sheriff's office has spent hundreds of hours on the case. The county was canvassed on foot and by car. Scores of people were interviewed.

This January an oil slick surfaced in a sandpit at Wilber, stirring speculation that the source of the oil may be the Oliva car.

A cave-in at the sandpit may have covered the auto, law enforcement authorities theorize, before it was searched by divers.

The pit will be searched again this summer. If this search is futile, according to Sheriff Ed Prokopi, the case may go unsolved.

'No Other Leads'

"There aren't any other leads."

Debra Forycki disappeared from her Lincoln apartment at 1106 S. 20th on Oct. 3, 1974.

The last trace police have been able to find of the pretty blonde coed is a report by a neighbor who heard the door to her apartment slam at about 11:30 a.m.

Miss Forycki, a UNL senior majoring in French, did not keep a luncheon appointment at a downtown restaurant and did not report for work at Brandeis at 2:20 p.m.

Police have never been able to trace her path from the apartment building where she lived with another young woman.

She did not take clothes or money. She had a paycheck waiting for her at Brandeis. She did not own a car and police have established that she did not take the bus or a cab from the apartment.

'Not On Own Accord'

"My wife and I and her friends don't believe she left on her own accord," her father once said. "She's not on dope and she wasn't pregnant."

Police have amassed a stack of reports about two inches thick on the case. Flyers have been distributed across the country. Her father has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to her safe return.

"We don't have a thing," admitted Lincoln Police Capt. Roger LaPage.

They all simply vanished.

Reader Is Nauseated By Amputee's Eating

DEAR ABBY: An incident happened about two months ago, and I can't seem to get it out of my mind. In fact, when I think of it, it still repulses me, and I'd like to know if you think I'm wrong to feel this way. My mom and I were eating lunch during the rush hour at a fairly nice restaurant. A man and a young body entered together. The man had no arms, just stumps, hanging in full view of all. They sat near us, and ordered their lunch. The man's plate was placed in front of him, and he proceeded to knock it into eating position with his stumps. Then he put his face down into the plate and proceeded to eat just like a dog. I was so nauseated, I couldn't finish my lunch.

I honestly felt sorry for the man, but I also felt that he should not have exposed the people to that kind of scene. Please tell me how you honestly feel about it. It bothers me how much his looks and eating habits repulsed me. Thank you very much.

NO NAME OR PLACE

DEAR NO: You ask: "Am I wrong to feel this way?" Consider this: The armless man had to overcome his self-consciousness and learn how to handle the stares and looks of revulsion from strangers in order to eat in public. (A major victory for him!)

It takes a mature and compassionate person to handle unesthetic situations with grace. I hope you learn to do so because you will need it to deal with life realistically. And if you don't, it will be YOUR problem.

DEAR ABBY: There is this guy who is a year older than me, and a whole lot bigger. The other day he gave me a black eye. I would like to get back at him, but I don't know how to do it. Have you any ideas?

BLACK EYE

DEAR BLACK EYE: Stay out of his way, or you might end up with a matched pair.

DEAR ABBY: In a courtship between a woman 65, and a man 67, who should offer the first kiss?

Please don't think this is a joke. It isn't. I am a widow and he is a widower and we are getting very close to where I will need the answer to the above question.

If he should make the first move in that direction I want to know if I should act coy, or should I respond? Or am I the one who should make the advances to let him know I am not adverse to a romantic relationship? (I am not, but I don't want to push for it.)

Women used to sit back and let the men make all the overtures, but perhaps women's lib has changed all that. Or has it?

PROPER BUT PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: If you feel like kissing him, go ahead and kiss him. He'll probably meet you halfway and beat you to the finish line.

Opening lead - five of hearts.

There is obviously a big difference between a sequence of one spade — one notrump — three spades, and one spade — one notrump — four spades.

A one notrump response indicates 6 to 9 points. Therefore, if the opener's rebid is three spades, he is asking responder whether he has top values for his notrump bid.

Expressed pointwise, responder is being urged to go on with 8 or 9 points, or to pass with 6 or 7. The three spade bid is an invitation—not a command—to responder to bid again.

A four spade bid is made by opener when his hand indicates "a reasonable chance for game even if responder has only 6 or 7 points. This South hand, for example, is so promising for game that he should not risk being dropped at three spades.

Declarer makes the contract if he chooses the right finesse to take at trick two, after his only entry to dummy is forced out by the opening lead. If he finesesses the queen of clubs, he makes the contract; if he takes the trump finesse, he goes down against best defense.

Granting that either finesse has a 50 per cent chance, the club finesse is clearly the better play. Not because it succeeds in the actual deal, but because there is a better chance for the contract by attempting the club finesse.

For practical purposes, the hand is over if the club finesse wins. But if South tries the trump finesse instead, he does not necessarily make the contract if it succeeds. He must still contend with the possibility that East was dealt the K-x-x or K-x-x-x of trumps, in which case he cannot escape a trump loser.

Since the club finesse will make the contract far more often than the trump finesse, it is the right play to make at trick two. It is the percentage play.

Pro-Life Council For Supervision

Omaha (AP) — A representative of Omaha's Pro-Life Lawyers Committee says he hopes the City Council will take immediate steps to "supervise and discourage" specialized abortion clinics.

Earlier this week, a Florida-based firm, The Ladies Center, announced plans to open a family-planning and abortion clinic in Omaha early next month.

The clinic would be professionally staffed with local people, and would limit abortions to the first 10 weeks of pregnancy, officials said.

Larry Welch, a member of the Pro-Life Lawyers Committee, said, "The so-called Ladies Center is interested in making profits period."

"This corporation has no real interest in servicing the medical needs of this community for any reason other than corporate profits and profits for its investors, whoever they may be," Welch added.

Welch admitted however, that should the City Council pass legislation prohibiting the opening of the clinic, such actions would probably be challenged on constitutional grounds.

But, Welch also said he does not think the U.S. Supreme Court ruling, which liberalized abortion laws, "intended to foster, promote and protect a new industry, the nationwide chain store abortion clinic."

Ladies Center officials say they will charge about $185 for an abortion, and will counsel patients along with engaging in other health programs, but Welch disputes their intentions.

"These clinics which depend solely on abortion for the large portion of their profits are hardly in a position to hold themselves out as objective physician-counselors for patients contemplating abortion or its alternative," Welch said.

Lamb Wins Top Honors In Judging

Dave Lamb of Anselmo was named top individual in the senior division of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Block and Bridle meats judging contest here.

In a close contest, Lamb scored 670 points out of a possible 750, edging out Gary Maricle of Albion and Donalee Oatman of Ainsworth, both with 667 points. Fourth place went to Peg Karlberg of Sumner with 666 points, followed by Leon Wilson of Kearney and Dennis Burson of Burwell, both with 660.

Top honors in the junior division went to Scott Japp of Washington, who tallied 537 points out of a possible 650. Others in the top five were Neil Tompkins, Inman, 536 points; Andrea Roberts, Lincoln, 534; Steve Brand, Fremont, 530, and Dennis Andrews, Holbrook, 527.

Trophies will be presented to the top individuals at the Block and Bridle honors banquet May 1.

Mitchell (AP) — It was just another Wednesday morning for Dick Pederson — that is until he went to feed the steer calves he is grazing for Chuck Lee.

When Pederson started to scatter hay for the calves he found a full grown buffalo cow calmly grazing with the rest of the animals.

Pederson said he had no idea where the buffalo came from.

The nearest buffalo herd is about 20 miles away at the Wildcat Game Preserve near Gering, Pederson thought.

Pederson called Lee, and the

Just Another Day For Ranchers, Wandering Buffalo

Two men tried to cut the buffalo from the rest of the herd, but they were not very successful.

Although the expectant cow did not appear to be mean, she was apparently enjoying herself, and did not want to leave.

A short time later, the mystery was solved.

Turns out that Don Elliott, who lives about a mile from Pederson owns the buffalo.

Elliott said he bought the animal in Colorado Tuesday, but did not get home until early Wednesday morning.

When Elliott went to look for

his new possession Wednesday morning, he found the buffalo had wandered off so he began calling his neighbors.

Soon all was right again, except for the buffalo. She just didn't want to go to her new home.

At last report, the three men had decided it would take horses to cut the buffalo from the rest of the calves.

Elliott said he purchased the buffalo to try his hand at raising "beefalo."

The beefalo is a cross between cattle and buffalo, and is gaining popularity everyday.

Elliott said the buffalo cow has already been bred to a Hereford bull, and is with calf.

The calves appeared to be dumbfounded by the visitor, but the buffalo seemed to enjoy the whole episode.

Overdue Checks Coming

Omaha, Neb. (AP) — About 900 retired Omaha city workers will be much happier Thursday because their overdue pension checks will be delivered.

The checks, totaling some $168,000 were mailed last Friday, but did not arrive at their destinations Monday.

When the checks turned up missing, local postal authorities were sent scrambling to find them.

Every nook and cranny of the local post office was checked, but no checks were found.

Authorities theorized that the mail bag the checks were in may have been mislabeled, and sent to another city.

The theory was half right.

The checks turned up Wednesday morning in Oakland, Calif.

Chambers' Secretary Asks Support For Black Woman

Cynthia Grandberry, legislative secretary for Sen. Ernest Chambers, has written women's groups in Nebraska asking them to speak up in behalf of a North Carolina black woman charged with murder in apparently protecting herself against rape.

The woman, Joanne Little, is accused of killing a male white jailer who entered her cell at night in an apparent attempt to rape her.

"In the past," Ms. Grandberry wrote, "I have been critical of the women's liberation movements' because of their insensitive feelings toward black women and the problems we encounter, not because of our sex, but because of our skin color."

As secretary for Chambers, she noted, she is "aware of the numerous 'women's issues' presented to him for support."

"I hear all the women libbers screaming for 'equal rights' and 'justice,'" Ms. Grandberry noted.

"Well, here's Joanne Little. Is she entitled to less?"

Lack of action by women's rights groups "endorses what is happening to Joanne Little," she wrote.

For "this is a problem that should concern all women regardless of their geographic boundaries. And as an organized women's group, I personally would like to see your group take a stand."

Ms. Grandberry suggested that the groups write both national and North Carolina officials, make their concern known to state officials and the news media and send contributions to the Southern Poverty Law Center for Ms. Little's legal defense.

Expert Says World To Need More Sugar

London (AP) — The world will need a one-third increase in sugar production over the next 10 years to meet growing demand, a United Nations sugar expert told a 48-nation conference in London.

Dr. Albert Viton, American chief of the sugar and beverages division of the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), said 25 to 29 million tons more a year will be needed in the next decade.

That amounts to one-third of the present world crop, estimated for 1974-75 at 79 million tons, including both beet and cane sugar production.

Indian TV Panel Ends Meeting In Lincoln

The national Native American Television Programming Consortium concluded its organizational meeting in Lincoln Wednesday by drawing up a charter and bylaws to incorporate as a non-profit organization.

The Nebraska Educational Television (NETV) Network has offered its production and distribution facilities as headquarters for the national consortium, according to Ron Hull, network program manager.

However, Hull said, other states have also offered to provide headquarters for the consortium. That choice and selection of the state in which to file incorporation articles have not been determined.

Native American management representatives of public television stations in Arizona, California, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah and Washington attended the session.

Once incorporation is approved, Hull said, the consortium then may apply for grants to carry out its projects.

The consortium hopes "to serve as a catalyst in production of excellent materials for and about Indians," Hull said.

Besides programming, Hull said a by-product of the consortium work eventually will be "to stimulate and encourage employment of native Americans" throughout the U.S. "in responsible positions of broadcasting."

In a nation-wide survey, consortium members discovered only seven Indians in public television who hold responsible management jobs, he said.

More immediately, "part of the work of this committee is to ferret out all of the existing television materials concerning native Americans in this country, which might be appropriate and available to public television," Hull said.

"These materials are going to be sent here to Lincoln," he said. In May, a consortium program selection committee will meet here to preview the materials and to share their evaluations with every public TV station in America.

DeCamp Schedules Visit To Mekong Delta

State Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said Wednesday he would go to the Mekong Delta area of Vietnam later this month to meet with Vietnamese friends and gather information.

DeCamp said he met his friends while traveling through delta villages to gather information for the Army.

He said he often wore native Vietnamese clothes and talked to the villagers in Vietnamese while serving as an Army captain.

DeCamp said the delta area of Vietnam has been the scene of much fighting since December.

His visit to Vietnam comes before an April 14-15 foreign policy conference in Washington with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. DeCamp and eight other state senators are among the 400 government officials invited to the conference.

DeCamp declined to say whether the two events were connected.

The Neligh senator began his political career by running an absentee campaign for the Legislature while still serving in Vietnam.

DeCamp said he worked for now CIA Director William Colby who was serving as deputy ambassador to Vietnam while he served there.

DeCamp said he "wanted to return to Vietnam for a long time to visit friends and see how the country is faring in the post-war period. I have a very soft spot in my heart for Vietnam and the Vietnamese people."

He said he would pay for the trip himself.

Judge Orders Malcolm To Hold Election On Indebtedness Limit
The village of Malcolm has been ordered to hold a special election within the next 60 days on a proposed initiative ordinance limiting the village's bonded indebtedness. The order came from District Judge Herbert Ronin ruling on a suit filed by the State of Nebraska on behalf of Floyd Hudkins, a Malcolm resident, against Walter Sieck, Malcolm village clerk. According to the suit, a petition asking for the proposed ordinance carried a sufficient number of names to constitute a valid initiative ordinance under Nebraska laws. The village board of trustees had rejected the ordinance and also had voted not to place it on the Nov. 5, 1974 election ballot. The proposed ordinance would limit the total amount of bonds issued by the village to no more than 35% of the total assessed value of the village. In his order, Judge Ronin said the clerk of the village is required by state law to place the ordinance on the ballot.

Ft. Calhoun Council Votes Against Transfer Of Park
Ft. Calhoun (AP) — The Ft. Calhoun City Council has adopted a resolution opposing LB576, which would transfer control of Ft. Atkinson State Historical Park. Banker Frank Starr III, who heads the Chamber of Commerce and Jaycees, said both groups soon will act on similar resolutions. The bill, introduced by Sen. Walter George of Blair, would transfer control of the park from the Game and Parks Commission to the State Historical Society. The fort was the nation's largest on the western frontier in the 1820s. Efforts to restore the post on Ft. Calhoun's eastern edge have been under way for about 10 years. Starr said the Game Commission has plans in the works to rebuild part of the fort this year and a transfer of control would jeopardize that project.

Inmates at the Nebraska Penal Complex are not being denied medical care, and accidents requiring emergency care are being treated in a timely fashion, according to a report issued Wednesday.

The report, the second released in recent weeks by State Ombudsman Murrell McNeil, disputes recent charges by inmates that they have been denied medical treatment on occasion and that recent inmate suicides might have been prevented by prompt medical attention.

McNeil wrote: "As long as 81.5% of the prisoners use or have used drugs and/or alcohol, the medical services at the Penitentiary stand a good chance of being criticized because the men are unhappy. "Prisoners told me that the main trouble with Dr. (Kenneth) Reighter (the prison physician) was that he would not let them have the drugs which they wanted by prescription.

"The addicted or chemically dependent prisoner wants to prescribe his own medicine, and when he has failed... he is understandably disgruntled."

Regarding the question of prompt reaction to medical emergencies, McNeil reported that during one of his visits an inmate suffered an apparent skull fracture at the hands of another inmate.

"I was there when the accident was reported and verified the lapsed time (before) the man was on his way to the hospital (was) seven minutes and 15 seconds," McNeil said.

In the meantime, the inmate was taken up two flights of stairs to the prison hospital, given emergency first aid and prepared for an ambulance ride to a Lincoln hospital.

Ombudsman McNeil called it "convincing evidence that the response was timely."

After examining the prison's diagnostic and reception center for new inmates, he said, "At no time... has a patient been denied medical care since the acquisition of a full-time physician. That statement is confirmed by every objective means I could bring to bear in researching this issue."

Comparing medical staff and expenditures for medical services, McNeil said there have been dramatic improvements.

In July 1973, the prison medical staff had a part-time physician and x-ray technologist and a full-time dentist, pharmacist and medical technologist.

Today, he said there is a 15-member staff, whose only part-time position is an x-ray technician. That position is vacant at this time.

The report did not discuss psychiatric care which was detailed in McNeil's first report.

The report also noted that $45,396 was spent in 1973 to hospitalize inmates in Lincoln; in fiscal 1975 it was estimated $219,663 will be spent.

For medication, the Penal Complex spent $24,987 in fiscal 1973, compared to the $118,196 it expects to spend in the fiscal year ending June 30.

Still, McNeil wrote, there is a backlog of inmates awaiting specialized care, but it is because there is simply not enough money to staff hospital rooms with guards when inmates are hospitalized.

Records indicate an average of six guards a day are required to watch over inmates in hospitals.

In the calendar year ending Dec. 31, 1974, the report said 580 prisoner trips were made to specialists, and 101 were treated in local hospitals for prolonged periods.

The report recommended additional staff for night emergency calls, new dispensaries and hospitals at both the Penitentiary and the Men's Reformatory, and additional staff to take inmates to specialists and hospitals in the community.

Music news is covered thoroughly in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

Ombudsman Finds Prisoners Not Being Denied Care

The Lincoln Star 13
Thursday, March 6, 1975

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Inmates at the Nebraska Penal Complex are not being denied medical care, and accidents requiring emergency care are being treated in timely fashion, according to a report issued Wednesday.

The report, the second released in recent weeks by State Ombudsman Murrell McNeil, disputes recent charges by inmates that they have been denied medical treatment on occasion and that recent inmate suicides might have been prevented by prompt medical attention.

McNeil wrote: "As long as 81.5% of the prisoners use or have used drugs and/or alcohol, the medical services at the Penitentiary stand a good chance of being criticized because the men are unhappy."

"Prisoners told me that the main trouble with Dr. (Kenneth) Reighter (the prison physician) was that he would not let them have the drugs which they wanted by prescription."

"The addicted or chemically dependent prisoner wants to prescribe his own medicine, and when he has failed... he is understandably disgruntled."

Regarding the question of prompt reaction to medical emergencies, McNeil reported that during one of his visits an inmate suffered an apparent skull fracture at the hands of another inmate.

"I was there when the accident was reported and verified the lapsed time (before) the man was on his way to the hospital (was) seven minutes and 15 seconds," McNeil said.

In the meantime, the inmate was taken up two flights of stairs to the prison hospital, given emergency first aid and prepared for an ambulance ride to a Lincoln hospital.

Ombudsman McNeil called it "convincing evidence that the response was timely."

After examining the prison's diagnostic and reception center for new inmates, he said, "At no time... has a patient been denied medical care since the acquisition of a full-time physician. That statement is confirmed by every objective means I could bring to bear in researching this issue."

Comparing medical staff and expenditures for medical services, McNeil said there have been dramatic improvements.

In July 1973, the prison medical staff had a part-time physician and x-ray technologist and a full-time dentist, pharmacist and medical technologist.

Today, he said there is a 15-member staff, whose only part-time position is an x-ray technician. That position is vacant at this time.

The report did not discuss psychiatric care which was detailed in McNeil's first report.

The report also noted that $45,396 was spent in 1973 to hospitalize inmates in Lincoln; in fiscal 1975 it was estimated $219,663 will be spent.

For medication, the Penal Complex spent $24,987 in fiscal 1973, compared to the $118,196 it expects to spend in the fiscal year ending June 30.

Still, McNeil wrote, there is a backlog of inmates awaiting specialized care, but it is because there is simply not enough money to staff hospital rooms with guards when inmates are hospitalized.

Records indicate an average of six guards a day are required to watch over inmates in hospitals.

In the calendar year ending Dec. 31, 1974, the report said 580 prisoner trips were made to specialists, and 101 were treated in local hospitals for prolonged periods.

The report recommended additional staff for night emergency calls, new dispensaries and hospitals at both the Penitentiary and the Men's Reformatory, and additional staff to take inmates to specialists and hospitals in the community.

KU Outlasts NU, 79-77

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

You never really feel confident against Kansas — even with a 19-point lead.

"We were never overconfident tonight . . . We just had everything going there at the start," noted Nebraska senior Steve Erwin, who played his final Lincoln game as a Husker Wednesday night at the NU Coliseum.

The start was super for Nebraska — the end wasn't. Kansas, with five points in the final 48 seconds of regulation play tied the game at 67-67 and went on to record a 79-77 double overtime triumph which all but assured KU of its second straight Big Eight basketball title.

Again, as in the two previous losses to Kansas — it was KU's towering physical size and rebounding strength that produced the victory.

For one of the few times this season, KU coach Ted Owens employed his two 6-10 men — Danny Knight and Rick Suttle — at the same time. Knight responded with 16 points and 10 rebounds and Suttle took game-high honors with his 29 points and 16 rebounds.

"It was also Knight's five-foot basket with only five seconds left that clinched the win. KU moved to 10-3 in the Big Eight and 18-7 overall. NU fell to 7-6 in league play and 14-11 overall.

Despite owning a 19-point edge (41-22) early in the first half, KU kept fighting back. Finally KU's constant juggling of its eight men, while NU coach Joe Cipriano went basically with his starting five, took its toll.

"With all their big men, we had to help each other out more," explained NU freshman guard Eric Coard. "The guards and forwards had to drop off more. We had to keep moving all the time. It sure takes a lot out of you."

Nebraska's Jerry Fort, who tallied 28 points, agreed with Coard's analysis.

"We got kind of tired. They were tired, too, but they have such a bigger team," he said. "It was just another one of those close games. We're snakebit."

"We've got to learn to stop making mistakes at crucial times," he continued. "We had trouble keeping Suttle off the boards. They just tried to throw it up and let one of their big men get it."

That was never so evident as with 45 seconds left in regulation time.

Suttle had hit the first of his two free throws and then he intentionally missed the second.

KU got the rebound and with 41 seconds to go, Norm Cook hit a 10-footer and it was 67-65.

Suttle finally hit a 15-footer with 16 seconds to send the game in overtime. Fort had a one-and-one free throw situation with 29 seconds left, but missed his first shot and KU snared the rebound.

"They hurt us inside with their big men," lamented a disappointed Cipriano. "We wore down a little at the end. We certainly had plenty of chances . . . all we had to do was get one free throw down and it would be different."

In noting it was NU's second overtime defeat this season, as well as a two-point setback, he observed that this may have been as frustrating a season as any in his 12 years at NU.

"I don't think we've ever had as many like these (close setbacks) this season," he said. "It's really tough for our kids. They battled so hard. But we made a few mistakes in those last 48 seconds of the game."

Sterling Nips Cedar Bluffs

By CHUCK SINCLAIR
Prep Sports Writer

Waverly — Sterling's 6-0 junior guard Rollie Aden is no dominating figure like Cal Christine was when the Jets rolled over the Class D field en route to a state championship in 1969.

But it was Aden's superb first half sharpshooting in the Class D regionals Wednesday night that enabled Sterling to earn its first trip back to Lincoln since the title was won, with a 54-50 triumph over Cedar Bluffs before a packed house at the Waverly high school gym.

Working against Cedar Bluffs' zone defense in the first two periods, Sterling coach Larry Rattie put Aden on the baseline working both sides, and he responded with nine field goals in 11 attempts, all from outside of 15 feet.

With the score tied at 10-all late in the first quarter, Aden started a shooting spree of 12 straight points for Sterling while the Cedar Bluffs Wildcats could counter with only three field goals.

Leading 22-16, Aden shoveled a pass underneath to Dennis Berg for an easy lay-in, and then connected on his seventh fielder in a row, this one from 20-feet, giving the Jets a comfortable 24-16 lead.

After closing the gap to 27-20 at the half, Cedar Bluffs came out to start the second half in a man-to-man with pressure on Aden.

The strategy worked as Aden was limited to just one shot the entire second half for his 20th point, but sophomore guard Kim Van Groningen picked up the scoring slack with three driving lay-ins off a high post split.

Cedar Bluffs' Kevin Yount, who hit only two of 10 first half shots, came alive with five of seven, second half field goal attempts to keep the Wildcats in the game.

Sterling held a 51-40 lead with 5:26 left in the game, but three straight turnovers were converted into Bluffs' baskets as the Cats closed within five, 51-46. Three pressure free throws from Van Groningen and two from Arlan Zuhke in the last 1:30 kept the Wildcats from cutting the lead to any less than four the rest of the way.

As a team, Sterling converted 23 of 39 field goal attempts for the entire game while Cedar Bluffs shot 51 times in the first three quarters alone and finished 25-62 for the game.

Advancing to Thursday's first-round of the state tourney in Lincoln, Sterling hiked its record to 15-6 while Cedar Bluffs closed its season at 13-12.

Aden and Van Groningen were the only Jets in double figures with their 20 and 11 points while Scott Wall and Yount each countered with 14 for the Wildcats.

Sterling . . . 12 15 16 13—56
Cedar Bluffs . . . 10 10 16 16—52
Sterling — Van Groningen 11, Geedkin 8, Berg 6, Aden 20, Zuhke 6, Crisler 5.
Cedar Bluffs — Wall 14, Prcnal 8, Yount 14, Janovec 6, Keller 6, Schere 4.

NU's 6-7 sophomore forward Bob Siegel noted the psychological impact of the loss before a rambunctious, roaring Coliseum crowd of 8,466.

"Sure, it as tough loss . . . how could they be any tougher?" he asked. "They're the most physical team we've played . . . easy. They take out a 6-10 player and who comes in but another 6-10? They take out one 6-9 and bring in another 6-8."

It was only appropriate that Knight, who has languished as Suttle's reserve for much of the latter games this season, would get all four KU points in the second overtime. In fact, Knight tallied eight of KU's 10 overtime points.

With Missouri topping Kansas State at Columbia, Mo., Wednesday all KU needs is a home victory Saturday afternoon in a regionally-televised game against Oklahoma to win the Big Eight title.

The Huskers end their season Saturday night at Iowa State.

Northeast Recovers To Dump Links, 59-45

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

Lincoln Northeast overcame what coach Ed Johnson called an old-fashioned case of the jitters Wednesday night to defeat Lincoln High, 59-45, in Class A-1 District Basketball Tournament action at Pershing Auditorium.

The Rockets advance to Saturday night's district finals against the winner of Thursday night's battle between fourth-ranked Lincoln East and fifth-ranked Lincoln Southeast. It's a 7:30 p.m. matchup at Pershing.

"We were a little concerned we might be jumpy at first," Johnson said of his youthful Rockets, who found themselves in a 17-8 hole in the first 12 minutes of the contest.

"You could tell we were jittery. We had a hard time holding onto the ball off the bankboard," Johnson said. "But once we settled down, we played pretty good basketball."

The ninth-ranked Rockets recovered nicely from their early shooting, rebounding and ball handling woes. They hit only 2 of 11 shots in the first quarter.

Finally, senior Russ Fiala ignited the fuse as Northeast completely shifted the momentum. The Rockets outscored the Links, 15-2, in the last 3 minutes and 47 seconds of the second period.

Fiala, among those struggling the hardest at the outset, started Northeast's comeback with a pair of free throws. He also produced a 3-point play with 2 minutes left in the period, delivered a basket with 50 seconds remaining and contributed a key rebound and subsequent assist.

Sophomore Doug Berka, however, may have delivered the biggest Northeast momentum factor when he banked in a 60-foot desperation shot at the half-time buzzer to give the Rockets a 23-19 lead.

Northeast, now 11-6, dominated the rest of the way in sending the Links to their 14th loss in 17 games this season.

Berka and Fiala each fired in three third quarter baskets as Northeast hit 9 of 16 shots in the period. More important, the Rocket defense tightened, the board effort strengthened and Lincoln High didn't get an individual rebound in the quarter.

Gary Karthaus, another Northeast sophomore, answered the challenge, scoring eight of his game high 16 points in the final quarter.

Balance was the key. Joining Karthaus in double scoring figures were Berka with 15, Fiala with 13 and senior Gary Reid with 10.

At one stage late in the first quarter, Johnson had four sophomores (Karthaus, Berka, Joe Prai and Bob Butcher) in the lineup at the same time.

"We're down to about eight kids now," Johnson said, noting that 2-year forward starter Jeff Weideman was told by his doctor not to suit up because of a broken nose suffered in practice last week.

When Metzger collected his fourth foul in the third quarter, Lincoln High's rebounding was all but lost.

Bancroft Stuns Laurel, 72-63

WAYNE, Neb. (AP)—Bancroft's Doak Wegner hit 24 points Wednesday night as the Bulldogs upset heavily-favored Laurel, 72-63 in a Class C regional contest here.

Wegner got some help from his friends, as three other Bulldogs managed to counted double figures, but the big story was the Laurel shooting problems in the second quarter.

The Bears, 17-7 heading into the contest, went pointlessly for a five minute period, and scored only seven the entire stanza.

Bancroft heads for the state tourney with a 15-6 mark.

Bancroft . . . 17 18 15 22—72
Laurel . . . 10 7 16 30—63
Bancroft — Wegner 24, Samuelson 16, Tietz 14, Plambeck 14, Pagelt 2, Konick 2.
Laurel — Slope 20, Thompson 12, Pipitt 7, T. Anderson 7, B. Erwin 5, J. Erwin 4, Gade 4, M. Anderson 2, Huetig 2.

All Clubs Seeded

The Nebraska School Activities Assoc. (NSAA) announced Wednesday that for the first time in modern state basketball tournament history, all competing teams will be seeded according to record.

In the recent past, the NSAA has seeded four teams in each class and drawn out of a hat to determine opening round opponents.

Next week, the top-seeded team will play the eighth-seeded team with No. 2 against No. 7, No. 3 against No. 6 and No. 4 against No. 5 in opening round matchups, based on the new format.

The Nos. 1 and 4-seeded teams will compete in the same bracket with the Nos. 2 and 3 teams in the opposite bracket.

"The only drawing will be to see if the No. 1-seeded team plays in an afternoon or evening game," NSAA executive secretary Les Chamberlin said. "We'll then draw to see if the top-seeded team plays the first or second game in its particular session."

Teams having identical records also may force a draw, Chamberlin indicated. He added the NSAA inaugurated the format to seed all teams in the girls state volleyball tournament.

"Of course, seeding strictly by record doesn't take into consideration the caliber of competition," Chamberlin noted.

The NSAA will determine the opening round pairings in a 9 a.m. meeting Sunday at the association's office in Lincoln.

Louisville Gains Berth, Rips Palmyra, 59-30

By DAVE SITTLER

Nebraska City — Louisville served notice here Wednesday night it would be a strong contender for the class C state basketball title, as the Lions burned Palmyra, 59-30.

Coach Fred Applegate's tall, talented club utilized a rugged 1-3-1 zone defense against the Panthers', to earn a ticket to next week's state tourney.

Palmyra, a state tournament qualifier last year, suffered a frigid shooting effort against the Louisville zone, scoring only four and five points in the second and third quarters respectively.

"We seemed to be completely in awe of them (Louisville) the entire game," veteran Palmyra coach Larry Horstman said. "Instead of attacking the ball we were standing around on defense the entire game."

Entering the contest with a 21-2 record, Louisville quickly took command of the game by jumping to an 18-9 first quarter lead.

said. "We used it against Palmyra during the regular season and beat them by 20 points."

While Louisville was having great success with its zone tactics, the exact opposite was happening to Palmyra, who opened the game in a 1-2-2 zone.

"I decided to go with a zone because I thought we'd be mismatched in a man-to-man," Palmyra's Horstman said. "Louisville has too much height for us to play an effective man-to-man."

Horstman decided to switch to a man-to-man in the second half, but it was of little help to the Panthers who ended the year with a 13-9 record.

Stacy Applegate, the coach's son, pumped in eight third quarter points for Louisville as the Lions put the game out of reach with a 43-18 lead through three periods.

Palmyra was unable to score the first three minutes of the third stanza and shot only 11% from the floor, over Louisville's rangy front line of Applegate (6-5), John Beck (6-4), and Rob Meisinger (6-3).

"That was the best defensive effort we've had all year," Applegate said. "I was a little concerned when Hrabik (Mike) picked up his third foul in the first quarter. He's the key to our offense."

Hrabik, who Palmyra's Horstman called, "one of the best guards in the state," returned in the second half to key the Lion offense which placed eight players in the scoring.

Stacy Applegate led the Lions with 18 points while Beck added 11, Kirk Bender 8 and Hrabik and Meisinger had seven points each.

Sophomore guard Ty Lashley paced the losers with 11 tallies. Palmyra had only four scorers for the contest.

"I knew we'd have to play a super game to beat them," said Horstman, who had taken five teams to the state tournament. "Louisville is a fine club. I'd rate them the favorite to win it all in Lincoln."

Applegate wouldn't predict a championship for his team, but said: "A lot of the big names like Wilber and Geneva have already lost, so who knows what will happen."

U.S.-Soviet Junior Track Meet In Lincoln

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

The United States Olympic track and field team won only five gold medals in the 1972 competition at Munich, all by men.

On July 4-5 at the Ed Weir Track on the University of Nebraska campus, the Americans will get some idea of prospects for next year at Montreal.

Those are the dates for the USA-USSR Junior Track and Field Championships held annually and bringing together the top athletes 19 years and under from two nations.

Official announcement of the event was made Wednesday afternoon by the joint local sponsors — the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, the University of Nebraska, the city of Lincoln and the people of Lincoln and the state.

"This is a great opportunity for Lincoln and the state to play host to a world athletic event," remarked Dr. Richard Hammer, who will serve as the meet coordinator.

Hammer praised the hard work of NU track and field coach Frank Sevine, the Chamber of Commerce and some 50 interested citizens who have pledged money and service to underwrite the bid.

Athletes from the United States will qualify in a championship meet in June and the two top entrants in each event will compete here.

The two-day affair will have 36 events, all of which will be finals and 14 of which will be for women.

Included are some rare events usually seen only in national or international competition, such as the men's 10-kilometer walk, men's hammer throw, men's decathlon and women's pentathlon.

There has been an indication USA track and field hopes will be much brighter at Montreal than at Munich. Last summer, the American juniors scored an impressive 197-181 victory over the Russians at Austin, Tex. American men were 1-2 in nine events and the women performed better than had been predicted.

Early this week at Richmond, Va., the USA senior men and women scored a 171-106 win over the Russians in an indoor meet. Tarnishing that victory, however, was the fact the USSR sent mostly a team of secondstringers, electing to save their top stars for this week's European Indoor Championships.

The 51 persons listed here have guaranteed to underwrite the USA-USSR junior track and field championships in Lincoln July 4-5:

KU Outlasts NU, 79-77

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

You never really feel confident against Kansas — even with a 19-point lead.

"We were never overconfident tonight . . . We just had everything going there at the start," noted Nebraska senior Steve Erwin, who played his final Lincoln game as a Husker Wednesday night at the NU Coliseum.

The start was super for Nebraska — the end wasn't. Kansas, with five points in the final 48 seconds of regulation play tied the game at 67-all and went on to record a 79-77 double overtime triumph which all but assured KU of its second straight Big Eight basketball title.

Again, as in the two previous losses to Kansas — it was KU's towering physical size and rebounding strength that produced the victory.

For one of the few times this season, KU coach Ted Owens employed his two 6-10 men — Danny Knight and Rick Suttle — at the same time. Knight responded with 16 points and 10 rebounds and Suttle took game-high honors with his 29 points and 16 rebounds.

"It was also Knight's five-foot basket with only five seconds left that clinched the win. KU moved to 10-3 in the Big Eight and 18-7 overall. NU fell to 7-6 in league play and 14-11 overall.

Despite owning a 19-point edge (41-22) early in the first half, KU kept fighting back. Finally KU's constant juggling of its eight men, while NU coach Joe Cipriano went basically with his starting five, took its toll.

"With all their big men, we had to help each other out more," explained NU freshman guard Eric Coard. "The guards and forwards had to drop off more. We had to keep moving all the time. It sure takes a lot out of you."

Nebraska's Jerry Fort, who tallied 28 points, agreed with Coard's analysis.

"We got kind of tired. They were tired, too, but they have such a bigger team," he said. "It was just another one of those close games. We're snakebit."

"We've got to learn to stop making mistakes at crucial times," he continued. "We had trouble keeping Suttle off the boards. They just tried to throw it up and let one of their big men get it."

That was never so evident as with 45 seconds left in regulation time.

Suttle had hit the first of his two free throws and then he intentionally missed the second.

KU got the rebound and with 41 seconds to go, Norm Cook hit a 10-footer and it was 67-65.

Suttle finally hit a 15-footer with 16 seconds to send the game in overtime. Fort had a one-and-one free throw situation with 29 seconds left, but missed his first shot and KU snared the rebound.

"They hurt us inside with their big men," lamented a disappointed Cipriano. "We wore down a little at the end. We certainly had plenty of chances . . . all we had to do was get one free throw down and it would be different."

In noting it was NU's second overtime defeat this season, as well as a two-point setback, he observed that this may have been as frustrating a season as any in his 12 years at NU.

"I don't think we've ever had as many like these (close setbacks) this season," he said. "It's really tough for our kids. They battled so hard. But we made a few mistakes in those last 48 seconds of the game."

Sterling Nips Cedar Bluffs

By CHUCK SINCLAIR

Waverly — Sterling's 6-0 junior guard Rollie Aden is no dominating figure like Cal Christine was when the Jets rolled over the Class D field en route to a state championship in 1969.

But it was Aden's superb first half sharpshooting in the Class D regionals Wednesday night that enabled Sterling to earn its first trip back to Lincoln since the title was won, with a 54-50 triumph over Cedar Bluffs before a packed house at the Waverly high school gym.

Working against Cedar Bluffs' zone defense in the first two periods, Sterling coach Larry Rathe put Aden on the baseline working both sides, and he responded with nine field goals in 11 attempts, all from outside of 15 feet.

With the score tied at 10-all late in the first quarter, Aden started a shooting spree of 12 straight points for Sterling while the Cedar Bluffs Wildcats could counter with only three field goals.

Leading 22-16, Aden shoveled a pass underneath to Dennis Berg for an easy lay-in, and then connected on his seventh fielder in a row, this one from 20-feet, giving the Jets a comfortable 24-16 lead.

After closing the gap to 27-20 at the half, Cedar Bluffs came out to start the second half in a man-to-man with pressure on Aden.

The strategy worked as Aden was limited to just one shot the entire second half for his 20th point, but sophomore guard Kim Van Groningen picked up the scoring slack with three driving lay-ins off a high post split.

Cedar Bluffs' Kevin Yount, who hit only two of 10 first half shots, came alive with five of seven second half field goal attempts to keep the Wildcats in the game.

Sterling held a 51-40 lead with 5:26 left in the game, but three straight turnovers were converted into Bluffs' baskets as the Cats closed within five, 51-46.

Three pressure free throws from Van Groningen and two from Arlan Zuhlike in the last 1:30 kept the Wildcats from cutting the lead to any less than four the rest of the way.

As a team, Sterling converted 23 of 39 field goal attempts for the entire game while Cedar Bluffs shot 51 times in the first three quarters alone and finished 25-62 for the game.

Advancing to Thursday's first-round of the state tourney in Lincoln, Sterling hiked its record to 15-6 while Cedar Bluffs closed its season at 13-12.

Aden and Van Groningen were the only Jets in double figures with their 20 and 11 points while Scott Wall and Yount each countered with 14 for the Wildcats.

NU's 6-7 sophomore forward Bob Siegel noted the psychological impact of the loss before a rambunctious, roaring Coliseum crowd of 8,466.

"Sure, it as tough loss . . . how could they be any tougher?" he asked. "They're the most physical team we've played . . . easy. They take out a 6-10 player and who comes in but another 6-10? They take out one 6-9 and bring in another 6-8."

It was only appropriate that Knight, who has languished as Suttle's reserve for much of the latter games this season, would get all four KU points in the second overtime. In fact, Knight tallied eight of KU's 10 overtime points.

With, Missouri topping Kansas State at Columbia, Mo., Wednesday all KU needs is a home victory Saturday afternoon in a regionally-televised game against Oklahoma to win the Big Eight title.

The Huskers end their season Saturday night at Iowa State.

Northeast Recovers To Dump Links, 59-45

By RANDY YORK

Prep Sports Editor

Lincoln Northeast overcame what coach Ed Johnson called an old-fashioned case of the jitters Wednesday night to defeat Lincoln High, 59-45, in Class A-1 District Basketball Tournament action at Pershing Auditorium.

The Rockets advance to Saturday night's district finals against the winner of Thursday night's battle between fourth-ranked Lincoln East and fifth-ranked Lincoln Southeast. It's a 7:30 p.m. matchup at Pershing.

"We were a little concerned we might be jumpy at first," Johnson said of his youthful Rockets, who found themselves in a 17-8 hole in the first 12 minutes of the contest.

"You could tell we were jittery. We had a hard time holding onto the ball off the bankboard," Johnson said. "But once we settled down, we played pretty good basketball."

The ninth-ranked Rockets recovered nicely from their early shooting, rebounding and ball handling woes. They hit only 2 of 11 shots in the first quarter.

Turnovers on four consecutive trips down the floor prevented early second quarter opportunities

Finally, senior Russ Fiala ignited the fuse as Northeast completely shifted the momentum. The Rockets outscored the Links, 15-2, in the last 3 minutes and 47 seconds of the second period.

Fiala, among those struggling the hardest at the outset, started Northeast's comeback with a pair of free throws. He also produced a 3-point play with 2 minutes left in the period, delivered a basket with 50 seconds remaining and contributed a key rebound and subsequent assist.

Sophomore Doug Berka, however, may have delivered the biggest Northeast momentum factor when he banked in a 60-foot desperation shot at the half-time buzzer to give the Rockets a 23-19 lead.

Northeast, now 11-6, dominated the rest of the way in sending the Links to their 14th loss in 17 games this season.

Berka and Fiala each fired in three third quarter baskets as Northeast hit 9 of 16 shots in the period. More important, the Wegner got some help from his friends, as three other Bulldogs managed to counted double figures, but the big story was the Laurel shooting problems in the second quarter.

The Bears, 17-7 heading into the contest, went pointless for a five minute period, and scored only seven the entire stanza.

Bancroft heads for the state tourney with a 15-6 mark.

Rocket defense tightened, the board effort strengthened and Lincoln High didn't get an in-individual rebound in the quarter.

The foul-plagued Links continued to scrap though and pulled within eight points early in the fourth quarter.

Gary Karthaus, another Northeast sophomore, answered the challenge, scoring eight of his game high 16 points in the final quarter.

Balance was the key. Joining Karthaus in double scoring figures were Berka with 15, Fiala with 13 and senior Gary Reid with 10.

At one stage late in the first quarter, Johnson had four sophomores (Karthaus, Berka, Joe Prai and Bob Butcher) in the lineup at the same time.

"We're down to about eight kids now," Johnson said, noting that 2-year forward starter Jeff Weideman was told by his doctor not to suit up because of a broken nose suffered in practice last week.

All Clubs Seeded

The Nebraska School Activities Assoc. (NSAA) announced Wednesday that for the first time in modern state basketball tournament history, all competing teams will be seeded according to record.

In the recent past, the NSAA has seeded four teams in each class and drawn out of a hat to determine opening round opponents.

Next week, the top-seeded team will play the eighth-seeded team with No. 2 against No. 7, No. 3 against No. 6 and No. 4 against No. 5 in opening round matchups, based on the new format.

The Nos. 1 and 4-seeded teams will compete in the same bracket with the Nos. 2 and 3 teams in the opposite bracket.

A pair of underclassmen led Lincoln High in the loss. Sophomore Robert Robinson came off the bench to hit 3 of 8 shots for 11 points and junior Charlie Metzger added 10.

CBS Sports Hopes To Boost Sports Audience With Scully

Hollywood (UPI) — Vin Scully, the voice of the Los Angeles Dodgers, may do for sports broadcasting what Billy Graham has done for salvation.

He may even be able to repair the images of broadcasters wrought by Howard Cosell.

CBS-TV, which has languished behind NBC and ABC in sportscasting for years, signed the red-haired Scully to telecast golf and tennis matches and its weekly National Football League games in hopes of becoming competitive.

At the moment the network has no readily identifiable personality associated with its sports program.

NBC has Curt Gowdy, Don Meredith and Joe Garagiola.

At ABC there is Frank Gifford, Chris Schenkel and the ubiquitous Cosell.

Scully is universally recognized as baseball's best announcer. So many fans bring transistor radios to Dodger Stadium his voice is heard in multi-stereophonic sound on each play.

Vin is, in fact, more than a broadcaster. To millions of Dodger fans Scully is the heart of the organization, more revered than the ballplayers. A member of the Dodgers organization for 25 years, he is as knowledgeable about the game as any major league manager.

But what does he know of tennis, golf and football?

"Well, I play tennis," Scully said in his faultless baritone, "and I get out on the golf course as often as I can.

"But football is something else. I used to broadcast college games for CBS radio back in New York in the 1950s. I've been taking a memory course to help me with the basics.

"And I've been studying with Jack Faulkner, the Rams' chief scout.

"But I don't want to get too technical with football. Some broadcasters make it sound as serious and complicated as open-heart surgery. I have no intention of trying to diagram the plays.

"I concentrate on the background of the players, anecdotes, key plays and individual effort. I believe in doing your homework so you're able to bring attention to facets, that aren't ordinarily obvious to a spectator.

"But the important thing is not to get in the way of the event. Sports fans are interested in the match. The contest is the thing."

Scully scrupulously avoids being a distraction himself. He is anything but a deadpan straight-ahead announcer. His broadcasts are filled with humor and behind-the-scenes information. But all of it is germane to the contest or its participants.

"CBS carries no baseball," Scully said. "So there won't be any conflicts for me in broadcasting Dodger games. During the baseball season I'll broadcast three golf tournaments.

"I don't know half as much about other sports as I do about baseball. But I'm learning as fast as I can.

"I'm doing a lot of research. My first broadcast for CBS was the Laver-Connors $100,000 tennis match in Las Vegas. I spent six hours with one of the best teaching pros in Los Angeles learning as much as I could about both players, their best shots and the sort of game they play.

"So I was confident during the broadcast and I think it turned out well."

Vin Scully has one big advantage going for him. He's as professional as any of the players he'll be talking about on the air.

CBS Sports Hopes To Boost Sports Audience With Scully

Hollywood (UPI) — Vin Scully, the voice of the Los Angeles Dodgers, may do for sports broadcasting what Billy Graham has done for salvation.

He may even be able to repair the images of broadcasters wrought by Howard Cosell.

CBS-TV, which has languished behind NBC and ABC in sportscasting for years, signed the red-haired Scully to telecast golf and tennis matches and its weekly National Football League games in hopes of becoming competitive.

At the moment the network has no readily identifiable personality associated with its sports program.

NBC has Curt Gowdy, Don Meredith and Joe Garagiola.

At ABC there is Frank Gifford, Chris Schenkel and the ubiquitous Cosell.

Scully is universally recognized as baseball's best announcer. So many fans bring transistor radios to Dodger Stadium his voice is heard in multi-stereophonic sound on each play.

Vin is, in fact, more than a broadcaster. To millions of Dodger fans Scully is the heart of the organization, more revered than the ballplayers. A member of the Dodgers organization for 25 years, he is as knowledgeable about the game as any major league manager.

But what does he know of tennis, golf and football?

"Well, I play tennis," Scully said in his faultless baritone, "and I get out on the golf course as often as I can.

Vin Scully

"But football is something else. I used to broadcast college games for CBS radio back in New York in the 1950s. I've been taking a memory course to help me with the basics.

"And I've been studying with Jack Faulkner, the Rams' chief scout.

"But I don't want to get too technical with football. Some broadcasters make it sound as serious and complicated as open-heart surgery. I have no intention of trying to diagram the plays.

"I concentrate on the background of the players, anecdotes, key plays and individual effort. I believe in doing your homework so you're able to bring attention to facets, that aren't ordinarily obvious to a spectator.

"But the important thing is not to get in the way of the event. Sports fans are interested in the match. The contest is the thing."

Scully scrupulously avoids being a distraction himself. He is anything but a deadpan straight-ahead announcer. His broadcasts are filled with humor and behind-the-scenes information. But all of it is germane to the contest or its participants.

"CBS carries no baseball," Scully said, "So there won't be any conflicts for me in broadcasting Dodger games. During the baseball season I'll broadcast three golf tournaments.

"I don't know half as much about other sports as I do about baseball. But I'm learning as fast as I can.

"I'm doing a lot of research. My first broadcast for CBS was the Laver-Connors $100,000 tennis match in Las Vegas. I spent six hours with one of the best teaching pros in Los Angeles learning as much as I could about both players, their best shots and the sort of game they play.

"So I was confident during the broadcast and I think it turned out well."

Vin Scully has one big advantage going for him. He's as professional as any of the players he'll be talking about on the air.

It's All Outdoors

Wildlife Hearings Approach

Conservationists, biologists and sporting groups had been keeping close tabs on the upcoming legislative calendar of public hearings. Bills affecting wildlife are coming up.

The first of many hearings is today and is on what could be the most important wildlife habitat bill to come up this year. LB488's public hearing begins at 1:30 p.m.

Omaha Sen. George Syas' bill calls for a special tax break for water and woodlands in the state. The tax break would provide an incentive to landowners not to destroy existing woodlands or drain wetlands to put more cropland into production.

Syas's LB488 calls for tax exempt status for all lands not used or owned for financial gain. The bill would provide for tax exemption for such items as wind breaks, waterways and other such acres diverted from or not used in production. It would replace much of the incentive of the old REAP or CAP acre program discontinued by the federal government.

The Omaha senator's bill was listed as a prime consideration at the Nebraska Wildlife Habitat Conference. A similar bill was introduced last year by Syas but did not pass.

Sporting groups need to join behind bills like LB488 to insure habitat availability in the future. Wildlife groups and landowners will also benefit through increased wildlife and an added tax shelter.

Dove Bill Coming

The controversial mourning dove hunting bill will also be coming up soon. March 14 is the proposed public hearing date for the dove bill.

LB142, the dove hunting proposal, is nearly an annual event for the Legislature's Constitutional Revision and Recreation Committee. It always draws the crowds and early indication predicts nothing but the same for this year's hearing.

The controversial and emotional issue pits hunting interests, hoping for legalized hunting of the most popular game bird in America against bird watchers who ask for mercy for the "song bird."

Hunters point out doves are more popular and have a higher population in Nebraska than in almost any state in the Union. They say hunting would affect them little since nearly 80% of the birds each year die anyway due to disease and natural causes. They point out it is one of the most prolific of all birds, capable of producing eight young in a single season.

Antidote hunters say the dove is a symbolic bird of peace and is a song bird, too. They say all dove hunters simply shoot dove off telephone wires (not the case, folks). The nonhunters have spoken their case well for years which is apparent since no dove season has come to pass for the perplexed dove hunters in Nebraska forced to travel to Kansas or elsewhere to hunt their favorite game each September.

Another bill, LB424, to be heard March 20, calls for the transfer of Ft. Robinson to the Sioux Indian Nation. Legislative attitude concerning the transfer of Nebraska's largest state park to the private organization is uncertain to date.

Other bills to be aired within the next few weeks include LB133, the 10-day pheasant season proposal, and LB576, the transfer of Ft. Adkinson to the Nebraska State Historical Society. All hearings begin at 1:30 p.m. in the Supreme Court Hearing Room at the State Capitol.

NWU Sends Four To NCAA Mat Meet

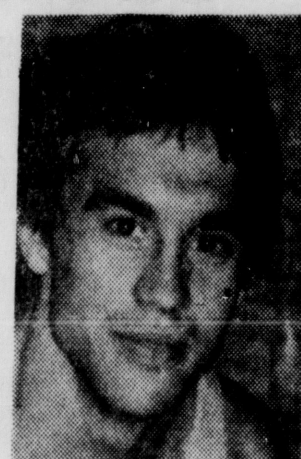

Larry Coufal

Sam Martin

Dan Thomas

Tim Knight

Nebraska Wesleyan will send a school record four wrestlers to this week-end's NCAA Division III championships at John Carroll University in Cleveland, Ohio.

Heavyweight Sam Martin (13-3) will lead the contingent of NWU conference champs that includes Tim Knight (13-1 at 158 lbs.), Dan Thomas (11-2 at 150 lbs.) and Larry Coufal (10-3 at 177 lbs.).

Martin, the only member of this year's team to have ever been to the nationals, will actually act as NWU's coach with regular mentor Ron Bachman now involved with the school's baseball team.

Martin captured his fourth consecutive Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship recently as NWU won their third straight team title.

The 230-pound senior went to the Division II nationals as a sophomore and lost his initial match 4-1, and last year was shaded 3-1 in the first ever Division III meet.

"It's the first time this many guys are going, and it'll help," Martin says. "I felt sort of isolated before, and the number of guys this year will be added security."

Knight, who won his third straight conference championship, and has NWU's best record this year, says his game plan is already set.

"In my mind, I know what I'm going to do, no matter who I wrestle," says Knight. "I have my first, second, and back-up moves already planned and I have confidence in Sam as a wrestler."

The four-man contingent bound for Cleveland, views this meet as their "Bowl trip" which rewards a successful season.

Hunters point out doves are more popular and have a higher population in Nebraska than in almost any state in the Union. They say hunting would affect them little since nearly 80% of the birds each year die anyway due to disease and natural causes. They point out it is one of the most prolific of all birds, capable of producing eight young in a single season.

Antidove hunters say the dove is a symbolic bird of peace and is a song bird, too. They say all dove hunters simply shoot dove off telephone wires (not the case, folks). The nonhunters have spoken their case well for years which is apparent since no dove season has come to pass for the perplexed dove hunters in Nebraska forced to travel to Kansas or elsewhere to hunt their favorite game each September.

Another bill, LB424, to be heard March 20, calls for the transfer of Ft. Robinson to the Sioux Indian Nation. Legislative attitude concerning the transfer of Nebraska's largest state park to the private organization is uncertain to date.

Other bills to be aired within the next few weeks include LB133, the 10-day pheasant season proposal, and LB576, the transfer of Ft. Adkinson to the Nebraska State Historical Society. All hearings begin at 1:30 p.m. in the Supreme Court Hearing Room at the State Capitol.

NWU Sends Four To NCAA Mat Meet

Larry Coufal

Sam Martin

Dan Thomas

Tim Knight

Nebraska Wesleyan will send a school record four wrestlers to this week-end's NCAA Division III championships at John Carroll University in Cleveland, Ohio.

Heavyweight Sam Martin (13-3) will lead the contingent of NWU conference champs that includes Tim Knight (13-1 at 158 lbs.), Dan Thomas (11-2 at 150 lbs.) and Larry Coufal (10-3 at 177 lbs.)

Martin, the only member of this year's team to have ever been to the nationals, will actually act as NWU's coach with regular mentor Ron Bachman now involved with the school's baseball team.

Martin captured his fourth consecutive Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship recently as NWU won their third straight team title.

The 230-pound senior went to the Division II nationals as a sophomore and lost his initial match 4-1 and last year was shaded 3-1 in the first ever Division III meet.

"It's the first time this many guys are going, and it'll help," Martin says. "I felt sort of isolated before, and the number of guys this year will be added security."

Knight, who won his third straight conference championship, and has NWU's best record this year, says his game plan is already set.

"In my mind, I know what I'm going to do no matter who I wrestle," says Knight. "I have my first, second, and back-up moves already planned and I have confidence in Sam as a wrestler."

The four-man contingent bound for Cleveland, views this meet as their "Bowl trip" which rewards a successful season.

Passage Of National Health Plan Seen

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Congress will pass a national health insurance bill within the next two to three years, one of the country's top authorities on social welfare predicted Wednesday in Lincoln.

Dr. Wilbur Cohen, former secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare Department under President Lyndon B. Johnson, was here to present the fifth and final Gerald L. Phillippe lecture at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Cohen, who played a key role in the formulation of the original Social Security Act of 1935 and the Medicare Act of 1965, which he cited as his greatest accomplishment, is currently dean of the School of Education at the University of Michigan.

'Very Big Step'

Cohen said passage of a national health system will be a "very big step" and advised Congress to implement it bit by bit over a period of several years.

"Any kind of a system that affects 215 million people, 300,000 physicians, 7,000 hospitals and 4 or 5 million people in the health profession" is a substantial undertaking, he said.

"D-Day on Normandy Beach was a very minor managerial problem in comparison."

Cohen, an enthusiastic and animated speaker, indicated that one of his biggest concerns is adequate health care for children under the age of 6.

"In terms of investing in this nation's future," he said, that is where this country "will get the biggest bang out of a buck."

He foresees a "more human-services oriented society" — midway between a socialized program like that in Russia and the private enterprise system.

No Estimate Of Cost

Cohen gave no estimate of total cost of such a program.

A national health insurance program "would give a sense of security that mounting costs wouldn't bankrupt you," he said.

"And at the same time, allows freedom to select your own doctors and hospitals."

But where does that put big insurance firms like Blue Cross and Blue Shield?

Cohen said private companies could manage the system — take care of paperwork and determine how and when claimants are paid.

He indicated the national health insurance issue will be a "hot potato" in Congress during the next couple years, adding that Nebraska's own Sen. Carl Curtis, ranking Republican on the Senate Finance Committee, will have a strong voice in what type of system is adopted.

Insurance companies favor a "mandated" plan, he said, which would require every employer to arrange insurance for his employees. Cohen strongly urges equal and universal coverage instead.

"A mandated system is fine for employed people," he pointed out, "but what about unemployed or those on welfare — those that just don't fit? A national plan should insure everybody."

Although there already are at least 10 different national health system proposals in Congress today — from an American Medical Association version to one suggested by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. — Cohen said the bill Congress will eventually pass has not yet been introduced.

For one thing, the economic recession will have a significant and long-range impact on social legislation, he said. Those formerly against governmental intervention will remember what it's like to be down and out.

"Look what came out of the Depression — Social Security, welfare, private pension plans, commercial insurance."

Turning to one of his "babies," Cohen said the Social Security system is not in immediate danger of collapse.

What it desperately needs, he said, is updating to protect its financial integrity. For the next few years there will undoubtedly be more outgo than income.

Still, he said, there is $50 billion in reserve to draw upon, so "no beneficiary need worry about the financial solvency of the system."

Higher Base Urged

However, to insure continued financing, Cohen said Congress should raise the taxable contributions and benefits base from the current $14,000 to around $24,000 — "which would make it self-sufficient in the long run."

"The future of Social Security is largely contingent on what Congress decides to do with it," he said. "Social Security is now paying 30 million people every month. I can't see Congress not acting."

Besides, if Congress doesn't take action, the Social Security system could be sustained under the present law until 1980 ... "and there will be three new Congresses before then."

"Look what came out of the Depression — Social Security, welfare, private pension plans, commercial insurance."

Turning to one of his "babies," Cohen said the Social Security system is not in immediate danger of collapse.

What it desperately needs, he said, is updating to protect its financial integrity. For the next few years there will undoubtedly be more outgo than income.

Still, he said, there is $50 billion in reserve to draw upon, so "no beneficiary need worry about the financial solvency of the system."

Higher Base Urged

However, to insure continued financing, Cohen said Congress should raise the taxable contributions and benefits base from the current $14,000 to around $24,000 — "which would make it self-sufficient in the long run."

"The future of Social Security is largely contingent on what Congress decides to do with it," he said. "Social Security is now paying 30 million people every month. I can't see Congress not acting."

Besides, if Congress doesn't take action, the Social Security system could be sustained under the present law until 1980 . . . "and there will be three new Congresses before then."

Lahnern Plans Pretrial 'Diversion'

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

If County Atty. Ron Lahnern has his way, burglars, embezzlers, pot smokers, pill poppers, drunk drivers and the like may be out walking the streets, holding down jobs and enrolling in social services programs.

He hopes to have a pretrial intervention — or diversion — project in operation in Lancaster County by July 1.

Lahnern's plan would give persons charged with their first offense a chance to avoid "the criminal justice system as we know it" — trial, sentencing, fine, imprisonment or both.

Available 'To Anyone'

Pretrial intervention would be available to "anyone who breaks the law" for the first time — if he or she is considered a good risk by the project's team of counselors.

Understandably, "perpetrators of violent crimes" such as murder, rape and assault with intent to do great bodily harm would "generally" be excluded from diversion, Lahnern said.

The project would emphasize an intensified, "forced" program of counseling and rehabilitative services rather than lock-up situations.

However, the "privilege" of pursuing the diversion course may be reboked "at any point" where the prosecutor determines the offender has deviated from his or her individualized program, Lahnern said.

Funds Offered

The county attorney's office has been issued a $1,500 developmental grant from the American Bar Association's Commission on Correctional Facilities and Services to design and implement the pretrial intervention project.

A seven-member steering committee, appointed to oversee its development, plans to submit a grant request to the State Crime Commission in April or May, Lahnern said.

He has put a $170,000 price tag on the project for its first year of operation. If the hoped-for maximum of 100 offenders enroll in that alternative during its first year, it could result in a whopping savings for state taxpayers. If those persons were placed instead in the Nebraska Penal Complex for a year, their total keep would amount to more than $500,000 according to current per diem costs there.

Would Be Restitution

The offenders would be out in the marketplace, holding down jobs and, hopefully, keeping their families off the welfare rolls, Lahnern pointed out. They also would be making restitution for their crimes.

Lahnern feels he has support of local government, since a diversion project was one of the highest priorities coming out of a recent study of the city-county jail set-up.

No legislation is required to implement the experimental project, but "it would formalize the process," he said.

Similar pretrial intervention programs have been successful in cities across the country, as close to home as Minneapolis and Des Moines.

Although those zeroed in on persons charged with misdemeanors, "we're going to give

Social Security Numbers Issued To Illegal Aliens

Washington (AP) — The Social Security Administration said Wednesday it issues Social Security numbers to illegal aliens, a practice one congressman said subverts efforts to block the aliens from obtaining unlawful employment.

Arthur E. Hess, deputy commissioner of Social Security, said the agency "went through considerable policy soul-searching to see if there was much call for this sort of thing" before deciding to issue numbers to illegal aliens.

The number can help an illegal alien obtain a job because many employers require a prospective employee to list his number to comply with Internal Revenue Service regulations.

Hess told a House panel that when persons issued a number but not eligible to work are found by the Social Security Administration to be earning wages, a report is made to the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

However, he said the administration generally does not find out about an illegal alien's wages until nine months after the person has started the job.

After the hearing, Hess said that federal law does not prohibit the issuance of the cards to aliens not allowed to work here. He admitted that it was causing a dilemma, saying: "Ultimately, we may have to say the number can be used for certain purposes and not others."

Rep. Paul S. Sarbanes, D-Md., said the practice "runs in direct cross purposes" to the proper use of the Social Security numbers.

The discussion occurred during a hearing of the House immigration subcommittee on a bill to prohibit an employer from hiring a person he knows is an illegal alien.

The bill, as introduced by House Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino D-N.J., provides fines of $1,000 and prison terms of one year for persons found for a third time to be violating the law.

it a big try in the felony area" as well, he said. "We know it works with misdemeanants," but the felony field is where it "will really do some good."

Previously Informal

Pretrial diversion "is something every prosecutor has done in one form or another," generally on an informal basis, Lahnern said. "The current type of correction has been shown to be inadequate to rehabilitate offenders."

The project's success or failure will be measured by the recidivism rate of the offenders enrolled in it. But that may take 10 years or more to gauge, he said.

Nebraska Official Urges More Commuter Flights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rudy Peralez, Nebraska's aeronautics director, came to the capital this week trying to prod federal officials into helping revive commuter airline service for small communities.

He told a reporter that such service is not adequate in many areas, such as Nebraska, because of the movement by airlines such as Frontier, which serves Nebraska, toward larger planes. The problem exists in other states also, he said.

Peralez said 12 to 13 air carrier airports in Nebraska are served by Frontier with Corvair 580s which seat 50 and the airline is trying to replace these with Boeing 737s jets.

As an example, he said, McCook, Neb., has only one round trip service a day and if there were smaller planes there could be three trips at about the same cost with no added federal subsidy.

What is needed, Peralez said, is reliability of service and especially "timely departure." By that he meant that planes should have departure schedules "so a business man can leave at 7:30 a.m. and return at a reasonable early evening time so a man can conduct his business at, say, the state capital." Peralez said the value of air service is diminished for the commuter when the plane leaves at 12:30 p.m. and returns late at night on the only round-trip flight of the day.

Peralez said many people in Nebraska prefer "name brand" airlines for commuter service as well as the longer flights. He said there are such recognized airlines in his area.

Earlier this week, Peralez urged the Civil Aeronautics Board to take more notice of the problem in a talk Monday at a consumer conference of airline regulators.

The panel was sponsored by the Ralph Nader related Aviation Consumer Action Project and Public Interest Economic Foundation.

To Sustain Its Advance

New York (AP) — The stock market, unable to sustain an advanced sparked by a half-point cut in the prime lending rate, sagged into a broad retreat Wednesday, driven by further oil price uncertainty.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had risen 180 points in three months prior to Wednesday's session, fell back 4.92 to 752.82.

Losers swept past gainers 833 to 569 among the 1,807 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Big Board volume totaled 24.12 million shares, heavy but far below Tuesday's 34.14 million shares, second highest in exchange history.

Brokers said the market's early weakness, a continuation of Tuesday's late-session pullback, was reversed after Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York announced an unexpectedly large drop in its prime lending rate of 7 1/4 per cent from 8 1/4 per cent.

But the spark was short-lived and prices again began to fall, partly because of further uncertainty over the price of oil.

There's a certain indefiniteness about the news," said Jack Salomon of Thomson & McKinnon Auchincloss Kohlmeier.

President Ford's oil tariff remains up in the air, he said, the fate of the oil depletion allowance remains in Congressional committee.

Besides, Salomon added, there is new feeling that speculation over any significant drop in world oil prices "may be closer to talk than actuality."

Oil and oil-related issues were among the hardest hit Wednesday, with Exxon down 3 to 7 1/4. Atlantic Richfield off 3 1/4 to 78. Getty Oil down 5 1/4 to 129 1/4, and Kerr-McGee, down 2 1/4 to 67 1/4.

However, Texaco, which announced a new oil find in the North Sea, was steady at 26 1/4.

Bucking the downward trend of glamors, airlines, drugs, and photo stocks, were gold issues, which advanced despite a fall in gold prices. ASA, Ltd., picked up 4 1/4 to 78 and Homestake rose 1 1/4 to 43 1/4.

Also advancing was Coca Cola, up 1 1/4 to 74 1/4. The company announced an increase in its quarterly dividend.

Beatrice Foods, up 1/4 to 20 1/4, and Honeywell, down 2 1/4, were the most-active Big Board issues. Large blocks of both issues changed hands.

The most-active AMEX issues were Imperial Oil A, down 1 1/4 to 25 1/4.

Overtime Dispute Halts Grand Island Bell Work

Grand Island (AP) — Work at the Northwestern Bell Telephone offices here was interrupted for about 2 1/2 hours Wednesday morning when 22 Western Electric installers, all members of Local 729 of the Communications Workers of America, set up a picket line to protest a two-day suspension stemming from the installers' refusal to work non-emergency overtime as required by Bell.

Bell employees honored the pickets and management personnel had to take over for a time.

Officials said there was a slowdown in the business office, but other operations ran near normal until the pickets withdrew about 10:30 a.m.

Jack Widham, Local 729 steward, said the pickets were withdrawn at the request of the international union, but that the withdrawal does not mean the dispute has been settled.

Widham said the protest was called because union members were suspended when they refused to work overtime hours. The suspensions also began Wednesday morning while the other installers were suspended for two days. Widham was given a four-day suspension.

Union members pointed out that nationally, some 5,000 equipment installers have been laid off because of a lack of work.

Three weeks ago, Bell implemented a policy requiring the union members, who are now protesting, to work overtime.

Six of the protesting installers are from the Omaha area, seven are from out-of-state, and the other nine are from the Grand Island area.

Omaha Is Fined $2,500 For Income Tax Evasion

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha businessman who pleaded guilty to federal tax evasion charges was fined $2,500 and placed on five years probation Wednesday by U.S. District Judge Robert V. Denney.

Robert L. Wickman, operator of Robert L. Wickman and Associates, pleaded guilty on one count in a four-count indictment charging him with failure to pay $26,769.91 in federal taxes on income earned during 1971.

The original indictment also charged Wickman with evading a portion of the federal income tax on his 1970 income, and with filing false returns both years. The three remaining charges were dropped after Wickman entered the guilty plea to the 1971 charges.

In addition to the fine and probationary period, Wickman

Rock Island Railroad Can Run For Awhile

Washington (AP) — The financially ailing Rock Island has averted temporarily a cash shortage that threatened to shut it down and now has enough money to operate throughout next week, the railroad president said Wednesday.

John Ingram, president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, made the announcement after the line's board of directors met for more than five hours to discuss the future of the Midwestern carrier.

Railroad officials had told the Interstate Commerce Commission Monday that the Rock Island could run out of money to pay its bills by Wednesday. But Ingram said that possibility was avoided when a Canadian railroad and a railroad-related corporation agreed to early payment of money owed the Rock Island.

Ingram said the new funds meant the Rock Island would be able to continue operating for the next 12 days while the Senate Commerce Committee holds hearings on its problems.

Rock Island Railroad Can Run For Awhile

Washington (AP) — The financially ailing Rock Island has averted temporarily a cash shortage that threatened to shut it down and now has enough money to operate throughout next week, the railroad president said Wednesday.

John Ingram, president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, made the announcement after the line's board of directors met for more than five hours to discuss the future of the Midwestern carrier.

Railroad officials had told the Interstate Commerce Commission Monday that the Rock Island could run out of money to pay its bills by Wednesday. But Ingram said that possibility was avoided when a Canadian railroad and a railroad-related corporation agreed to early payment of money owed the Rock Island.

Ingram said the new funds meant the Rock Island would be able to continue operating for the next 12 days while the Senate Commerce Committee holds hearings on its problems.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST
By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast for Thursday
"My wife claims you are wonderful. I am skeptical. I am a Cancer. Astrology is interesting and you are a good writer. But I don't know what to think. What should I do?" - Joseph Chrenko; Encino, Calif. Response: Listen to your wife!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Change of venue may be necessary. Some persons are playing free and loose with the facts. You could be called to task. Key is to clear the air. Pick and choose. Become the master of your own fate. Accept assignment that tests your ability to handle authority.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Harmonize relationships by making adjustments, concessions. You can do this without abandoning principles. Another Taurus, a Scorpio and Libra may be in picture. Follow through on hunch. You will learn by sharing knowledge.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Complete story has yet to be revealed. You will have to delve behind the scenes. Someone is "pulling your coat." Means a message awaits if only you pay attention. Pisces, Virgo are prominent.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Accept added responsibility. With it comes greater reward. Emphasis is on public relations, right-of-way, legal clearance. Mate, partner figures in picture. Be a shrewd observer. Hold cards close to chest. Don't reveal all you know.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Relatives may not be in mood for talking sense. Means there is tendency to revolt. To be stubborn, arbitrary. Defend yourself without further complicating situation. Some neighbors display pugnacious tendencies. You'll need overall view and sense of humor.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Strive for your own style. Get to heart of matters. Your ability to create and analyze will surge to forefront. Leo and Aquarius could figure prominently. New start in new direction is featured. Heed your own counsel about finances. Relative is misguided and impulsive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Security, getting along with older family member - these areas are highlighted. Aquarius figures prominently. Your hunch pays off if you exhibit courage of convictions. One who taught you makes reappearance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent versatility. Be an explorer. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. You find out what is happening in area obscured from view. You gain confidence of one who is closed-mouthed. You could be called on to read a paper on specialized subject or to represent a view for the media.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be aware of details. Carelessness now can cost you money. Highlight specifics. Take cash and let credit go. Refuse to be cajoled by proverbial sweet talk. Avoid giving up something of value for nothing. Message will become increasingly clear.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Lycie is such that you get action in areas previously moribund. You get vivid picture of what is going on. You are before you, as if on a motion picture screen. Don't sell yourself short. Contact made now can help gain your recognition.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Light touch is important. Avoid giving impression that you are forcing issues. Taurus, Libra and another Aquarian are likely to be in picture. You "hear" from one who apparently had taken off for greener fields.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Friends may argue and attempt to draw you into middle of conflict. Change of scenery would prove beneficial. Avoid self-deception. See situations, persons as they really exist. You may be active in connection with hospital, visits and the like.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY You are a psychologist. You delve beneath surface indications for story as it actually exists. You are psychic, poetic and you draw to you persons born under Taurus, Libra and Scorpio. April should be your most significant month of 1975.
